Defense Questions Sheriff About Investigation

Radcliff Main Figure In Friday Session; Victim's Sister Called

Pickaway County Sheriff Charles Radcliff was the central character Friday in the first-degree murder trial of Mary Agnes Ruff in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court.

The Sheriff, who took the stand as state's witness late Thursday, continued testimony Friday facing an intensive cross-examination by the defense.

Chief theme of the defense parrying was an attempt to assert the Sheriff was too hasty in affixing suspicion on the farm-wife, while neglecting other principals in the case.

Defense attorneys attempted to assert that while the Sheriff was collecting evidence against the accused woman, her mother-in-law and sister-in-law were permitted free run of the Ruff house, scene of the fatal shooting.

OTHER KEY figure in Friday's session, fifth day of the trial, was Bonnie Ruff, 47-year-old sister of the victim.

Mary Ruff "didn't look normal" while struggling in the Ruff home a moment after the fatal shots were fired.

That was testimony given by Bonnie Ruff as she took the stand for direct examination a short time before the noon recess.

Questioned by Attorney Ray Davis, assistant prosecutor, Bonnie Ruff related what she remembered of the minutes immediately after she and her mother, Ella, were awakened by shots in the Ruff farmhouse near South Bloomfield on the morning of Jan. 15.

She said she watched her mother struggle with the 34-year old defendant in an upstairs hallway.

"MARY'S FACE didn't look normal," she said, "but her hair was combed."

Bonnie Ruff, like her mother, said she believes two shots were fired from a gun held by Mary Ruff during the tussling.

"Two sounds were made; I thought they were shots," the sister of the victim testified.

Bonnie Ruff followed Pickaway County Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff to the witness stand.

Defense Attorney Paul Genger subjected the Sheriff to an intensive cross-examination for more than two hours.

Defense Boss Asks Senate To Relax Ban

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson has asked members of the Senate Armed Services Committee to waive their stock disposal rule so he can hire two more big businessmen as top aides.

The battle over Wilson's own nomination, which ended in a decision that he had to promise to dispose of his General Motors stock before being confirmed, touched off the first big appointment fuss of the new Eisenhower administration.

The defense secretary's move to reopen the touchy political situation seemed likely to bring flat refusal from Armed Services Committee members. Senators willing to discuss the matter predicted the committee will not relent in its requirements that defense officials dispose of their industrial holdings.

The law says that no federal official shall do business with any firm in which he has even an indirect financial interest.

Wilson was reported to have suggested the unification act be amended to give him two additional assistant secretaries. He now has three such aides, paid $15,000 yearly.

Wilson was said to have told committee members he is having extreme difficulty in enlisting the men he wants because the prospective appointees are reluctant to dispose of their stocks.

Sen. Duff (R-Pa.), said he thinks the committee would be unanimously opposed to changing its rule.

"What applies to one, applies to all," Duff declared.

Roks Recapture Hill From Reds

SEOUL (AP)—South Korean infantrymen stormed back to the top of Texas Hill on the central front today after Chinese Communists hurled three attacks against the key outpost and overran it.

The Reds threw an estimated 250 men into their latest assault against the strategic knob which has changed hands more than a half dozen times recently. A Rok spokesman said the first Chinese force which hit the outpost was wiped out.

Phone Service Rules Offered

Ohio House Proposes Tighter Regulations

COLUMBUS (AP)—Widespread complaints about high rates for poor telephone service began to show results today in the Ohio Legislature.

Members of the House Judiciary Committee unveiled proposed changes in public utility laws to require improved service, especially in rural areas.

The changes would grant sweeping powers to the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio to deal with firms that subscribers say are unable to give adequate service despite rate increases.

The measure proposed authority for PUCO to:

Make investigations and set standards of service.

Authorize service in areas without phones or lacking adequate service.

Order merger of firms giving inadequate service or authorize service by other companies.

REQUIRE FIRMS to maintain proper depreciation or deferred maintenance accounts.

Require company income statements.

Require complete financial statements in rate increase applications.

Open records to interested parties or their attorneys.

Keep complete records of hearings on contested cases.

Make it prima facie evidence of inadequate service after Jan. 1, 1955, for firms with more than 500 subscribers to have more than 10 phones on a party line.

Make it unlawful for firms to continue operations after failure to comply with PUCO orders to correct service faults.

Ban use of funds from stock or bond issues for expansion if service is inadequate.

Ban cash or stock dividends to shareholders by firms in violation of PUCO orders.

Increase penalties through courts for failure to comply with PUCO orders for phone service improvements from a maximum $1,000 to $5,000 a day.

Ignition Trouble Stalls Speed Try

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP)—Ignition trouble and a dry oil line Thursday ended Joe De Bona's attempt to regain the transcontinental speed record for propeller driven planes he lost in 1950.

The 40-year-old pilot landed at Fort Wayne's Baer Field a few seconds less than four hours and 13 minutes after he took off from Burbank, Calif., in a redesigned P-51 Mustang. He was aiming at the record of four hours, 52 minutes, 58 seconds set by Paul Mantz two years ago.

Youngstown Cop Chief Given Aid

YOUNGSTOWN (AP)—Youngstown Police Chief Edward J. Allen said today he has received $5 from a Niles resident to help him fight a court case concerning his campaign against books he considers "obscene."

The chief has been sued by the New American Library of World Literature for $3,500 on the firm's claim he libeled its pocket sized books. The publisher also asked federal court in Cleveland to issue an injunction against the Youngstown drive.

Air Force Shuns Town's Protest

CLEVELAND (AP)—Cuyahoga Heights is going to get a $40 million government industry, the Air Force says, whether the suburb likes it or not.

The Air Force told the Alumina Co. of America Thursday night to go ahead and construct a forging press plant despite the village's refusal to issue a building permit. Cuyahoga Heights officials opposed the plan because federal properties are exempt from taxes.

Ike's Uncle Milt Dies At Age 88

MYRTLE POINT, Ore. (AP)—Theodore Milton Stover, 88, an uncle of President Eisenhower, died here Thursday.

Stover said last fall he would vote Democratic in the 1952 presidential election although he was a Republican because "Dwight's got too many headaches now."

America Warning Free World To Keep Its Unity

Statement Comes After Soviet Delegate Hints Malenkov Policy Little Different From Stalin's

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The U. S. warned the free world today against abandoning its policy of strength and unity because of conciliatory gestures from the Kremlin.

U. S. Delegate Ernest A. Gross told the UN's 60-nation Political Committee that it was the West's very policy of strength and unity which had brought about such gestures and that eventually it would oblige the Soviet government to change its policies completely.

"MOST OF US feel the time will come when the Soviet government will find it necessary to modify its policy. If so it will be because of our policy of strength and unity. We must not abandon that strength," he declared.

Gross deplored reintroduction of an omnibus Polish peace package and said the UN has already rejected all major points in it. He specifically regretted the bringing up of the Korean problem here at this time.

"No resolution on Korea is necessary or desirable at this time," he declared. "We must avoid any action which might jeopardize the talks at Panmunjom."

The Gross statements came after an address by Soviet Delegate Andrei Vishinsky indicated before the committee that Premier Georgi Malenkov's policies were little different from Stalin's.

Gross labeled Vishinsky's speech "stale, dull and regressive."

In his address Thursday the Soviet diplomat outlined what he believed to be the proper steps to world peace.

These include an across the board one-third arms cut, immediate prohibition of the atomic bomb, dissolution of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, admission of Communist China to the UN and continued demilitarization of Germany.

The delegates have already voted down these ideas. Their revival by Vishinsky punctured bubbles of optimism which many delegates had blown from Soviet peace breezes apparently wafting from the Kremlin.

THEY HAD EXPECTED Vishinsky to come up with specific conciliation suggestions to firm up propaganda emanating from Communist sources and were disillusioned when he didn't.

Vishinsky said the Soviet Union's policy was "unswerving for peace." Delegates, studying his speech, agreed that at least it was unswerving.

Obviously surprised that Vishinsky's proposals did not reflect the apparent new trend of conciliation coming from Moscow, Gross told Vishinsky the American people are "willing to go half way."

"The question is: Half-way to what?" Gross added.

Dropping his old-time belligerence and insults, Vishinsky in calm tones had told the 60-nation political committee that the way to ease world tension was:

1. For the west to stop arming. "Stop stuffing weapons into your pockets and maybe the atmosphere will improve," he said.

2. Ban the atomic bomb.

3. Dissolve NATO, drop the Schuman plan, stop plans for re-arming Western Germany, and abandon the European Defense Community.

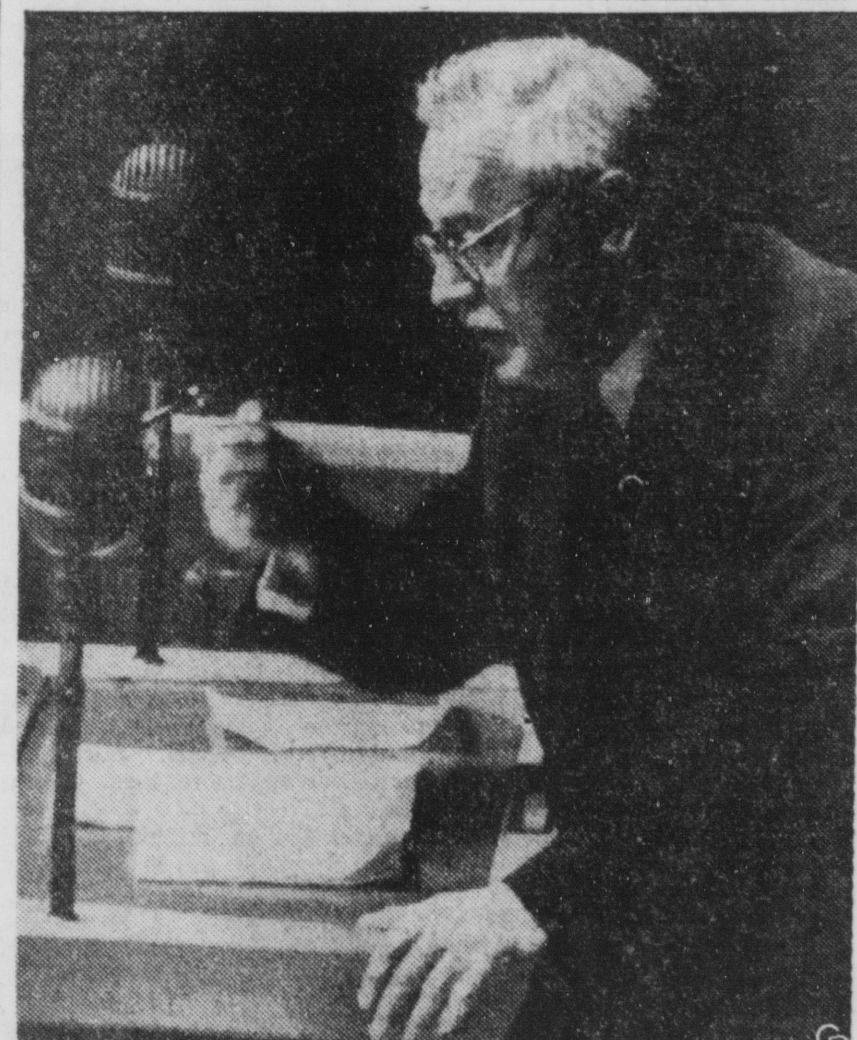

This is the hoary Communist peace plan which the assembly has rejected and the west has denounced as designed to leave non-Communist countries at the mercy of the Soviet Union.

THE ONLY change was in presentation. Instead of violently denouncing western countries as warmongers, murderers and cannibals, he attempted to use a tempered reasoning to persuade western delegates that his program was really in their interest.

His theme was that Lenin and Stalin had repeatedly stated the Communist and non-Communist worlds could co-exist peacefully. In view of that, Vishinsky claimed, any statement that the west's rearmament drive and series of alliances were necessary because of threats from the east was "a mere scarecrow."

Only on the subject of Korea did the Soviet chief delegate take account of recent developments.

Vishinsky endorsed a Polish resolution calling for "the immediate resumption of truce negotiations between the parties, it being understood that in the course of such negotiations the parties will exert every effort to reach agreement both on the question of the exchange of sick and wounded prisoners of war and on the question of prisoners of war as a whole, endeavoring thereby to remove the obstacles preventing the termination of the war in Korea."

ANDREI VISHINSKY, permanent Soviet delegate to the United Nations in New York, presents a Russian offer to meet the western powers "half way" on global disarmament. The ex-Foreign Minister's bid was immediately rejected by the United States and Britain as designed to "scuttle" U.N. arms reduction and atom control plan.

Reporters Say Dulles Pulls Boner; Senator Asks Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Columbia Broadcasting System commentators have named Secretary of State Dulles as the point of origin of a number of recent newspaper stories on Far Eastern policy.

A story on Korea and Formosa published by the New York Times was denied by the White House Thursday, leading Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) to call for an investigation as to where it originated.

On separate CBS broadcasts, commentators Eric Sevareid and Bill Costello said the stories had their origin in a background session which Dulles held with a number of correspondents.

Sevareid said: "Mr. Dulles discussed the whole problem of post-armistice Korea and Formosa; he specifically authorized that State Department thinking on these matters could be printed, conditioned only by the familiar restriction against naming the source."

THE NEW YORK Times had said in its Washington dispatch that the Eisenhower administration is willing to accept a boundary at the waist of the Korean Peninsula, some 80 miles north of the present battle lines. The same dispatch said the administration was considering the possibility of a United Nations trusteeship for Formosa with a Formosan republic as its ultimate goal.

Some hours after this was published, White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty issued a statement saying the administration (1) has never reached any conclusion that a permanent division of Korea is desirable or consistent with decisions of the UN, and (2) has given no consideration to a UN trusteeship for Formosa.

Arthur Krock, the Washington correspondent of the Times, commented that "it is another instance of the administration getting its wires crossed and blaming the consequences on the press."

Knowland, Republican policy leader in the Senate, told his colleagues it seemed inconceivable to him that any decision had been reached on a permanent division of Korea. Calling for an inquiry as to the point of origin of what he termed inspired stories, Knowland said:

"It is extremely important that this kind of loophole be stopped now because this nation cannot have two secretaries of state. It must speak with one voice through President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles."

Nationalists Rap Washington Story

TAIPEH (AP)—Nationalist China's foreign minister today labeled "preposterous" reports that Washington is considering a Korean settlement based on (a) a boundary line across the narrow waist of the peninsula and (2) a UN trusteeship for Formosa.

"Too preposterous to deserve serious comment," said Foreign Minister George Yeh. "If the UN should recognize the fruits of Communist aggression in Korea and elsewhere it would be in glaring violation of its charter."

Allies, Communists Negotiators Gather For Signing Of Pact

MUNSAN, Saturday (AP)—The Communists agreed Friday to trade sick and wounded prisoners beginning about April 21, then proposed resumption of the long-stalled armistice negotiations.

Both sides were expected to sign today the agreement calling for the exchange of 5,800 ailing Reds for 600 Allied prisoners, of which 120 are Americans.

But in calling for a return to the armistice table, the Communist officers gave no sign of yielding on the principle of forced repatriation of some 50,000 prisoners who balk at returning to Red rule. It was Allied refusal to return such prisoners that ruptured the negotiations last Oct. 8.

COMMUNIST liaison officers in Panmunjom, in proposing the resumption, declared "the principle of repatriation of all prisoners of war" after an armistice "is unshakable."

And the Communists reiterated "the Korean-Chinese side does not acknowledge that there are prisoners of war who are allegedly unwilling to be repatriated."

The Communists' proposal, which they called "very important," was in reply to a letter April 5 from Gen. Mark Clark, the United Nations Far East commander.

The Communists proposed Thursday that full-scale armistice talks be reopened to discuss their new plan for exchanging all prisoners of war—the last major barrier to a truce. The proposal was included in a "very important letter" delivered to UN negotiators.

The text of the letter, released later by the UN Command, appeared to restate the March 30 proposal of Red China's premier, which was basically the Indian proposal adopted by the UN and which China previously rejected. The text also was broadcast by Peiping radio.

Clark authorized signing of the disabled POW agreement after interpreters had completed Chinese, Korean and English translations and the final draft had been transmitted to Tokyo.

UNDER THE PACT, the Communists said they would send home 120 Americans, 20 British, 15 French, Turks, Canadians, Greeks and Dutch and about 450 South Koreans at the rate of 100 daily.

The Allies agreed to hand over 5,100 North Koreans and 700 Chinese at the rate of 500 daily.

Atomic-Electric Power 'Way-Off'

CLEVELAND (AP)—A General Electric Co. engineering expert estimated today it would be at least 15 years before atomic-electric plants make an economically sound contribution to the nation's power supply.

Harry A. Winne, vice president of engineering for GE, said atomic fuel probably will not completely displace such other fuels as coal, oil or gas, but will become "a very welcome addition to our fuel reserves."

Ohio Student's Hearing Delayed

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Judge Boyd Anderson Thursday postponed for a week a preliminary hearing for William McCormick, 19, charged with manslaughter in an auto crash which killed two vacationing students.

McCormick, a student at Miami University, Oxford, O., said he fell asleep at the wheel of his car before it careened off Ocean Blvd.

for a year and suspended since Oct. 8 over prisoner exchange, came in the "important" letter.

It was addressed to the chief Allied negotiator, Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison Jr. from the head of the Red delegation, North Korean Gen. Nam Il. Harrison is in Tokyo.

A Communist spokesman said the proposal clarifies the Red position on exchanging prisoners and calls for reopening of the full-dress armistice talks now.

The Peiping radio broadcast what it said was the text of the Communist proposal and it appeared to restate the points made by Red China's Premier Chou En-lai March 30. The points included:

1. Let all prisoners go home who choose to return.
2. Turn over to a neutral country (to be named) all POWs who are listed as not wanting to return to their homelands.
3. Let "our side" give explanations to POWs "afraid to return home, thereby attaining a just solution to the question of repatriation."

PEIPING QUOTED NAM as saying "the Korean and Chinese side does not acknowledge that there are prisoners of war who are allegedly unwilling to be repatriated. Therefore, the question of the so-called forced repatriation does not exist at all, and we always have opposed this assertion."

Previously the Communists had demanded the forced repatriation of all prisoners, and the Allies had insisted that no prisoner should be forced to go home against his will.

The Communist proposal was similar to the India plan approved overwhelmingly by 54 of 60 nations in the UN Dec. 3 but rejected by the Reds.

While Chou's proposal seemed to move toward the principle of voluntary repatriation, it did not go as far as the India plan.

Chou suggested that the reluctant POWs in custody of a neutral state could be told by their own people what their decision to refuse repatriation meant. He did not say what would happen after that. He stressed, however, that the Reds were not abandoning their position on final repatriation.

Under the India plan, the prisoners would be given a chance to listen to both sides but would not have to go home against their will.

Clark asked the Reds Sunday for full details of the Chou plan. This was one of two conditions he set for resuming full armistice negotiations. The other was agreement—now reached—on exchanging disabled prisoners.

THE ALLIES HAD expressed disappointment on the small number of prisoners to be returned by the Reds. But they did not let this disappointment block an agreement.

In all, the Reds say they hold about 13,000 Allied prisoners, including 3,198 Americans, about 1,000 other non-Koreans, mostly British, and about 9,000 South Koreans.

The UN Command holds 132,000 captured Reds. About 51,000 have said they would resist a return to Communist rule.

These lists were compiled in December, 1951. Both sides have taken more prisoners since.

Radcliff Main Figure In Friday Session; Victim's Sister Called

near the bed on which Ruff's body lay. The other, jammed with two shells, was discovered on the back porch of the farmhouse.

THE SHERIFF also identified a large handbag as one found in the Ruff home. The state claims it was the property of the accused woman.

Contents of the handbag were piled on the desk of Court Stenographer Dorothy Updyke and examined by both state and defense attorneys. Included in the contents was a number of .22 caliber shells, and Radcliff said the ammunition—along with small cardboard ammunition boxes—were in the bag when it was found.

County Coroner Ray Carroll said bullets found in the head of the victim were .22 caliber.

Radcliff said Mary Ruff, after her arrest, mentioned two silver dollars and a ring found in the handbag as her property.

The sheriff, under questioning by the prosecutor, told of spots, thought to be of blood, in different parts of the Ruff home. Some, "smaller than the top of a pencil," he said, were noticed on the floor of the bedroom used by the married couple.

Another spot was found near the connecting cupboard in the utility room, he said, and at least two others in the bedroom used by the dead man's mother and Bonnie, his sister.

Radcliff said the window from which Ella Ruff said she and her daughter called for help was smeared with "something like blood."

THE SHERIFF then described how a bullet was found embedded in the bottom mattress of Ruff's bed. The prosecution claims ballistic tests disclosed this bullet was fired from a gun found in the home of Mary Ruff's mother shortly after the defendant reached Columbus.

Radcliff then related how the Ruff automobile was inspected and the property deed found.

The early crowd of spectators, jammed against the main doors of the courtroom, was the largest so far for the trial. Deputies Carl White and Winfield Koch, however, held a strong arm on the opening rush for seats.

A considerable number of the spectators brought their lunches. State attorneys said definitely they could not complete their case this week and possibly not until Tuesday. Friday's court session was the last for this week.

As court reconvened at 9:32 a. m. Friday, Sheriff Radcliff returned to the stand. Gingham questioned him.

THE ATTORNEY queried the sheriff about personnel of his department and other routine details.

Radcliff said Mrs. Rose Weir, Mary's mother, and the defendant's older daughter came to the sheriff last fall to report difficulties in the Ruff home. The sheriff said he turned the matter over to Guy Cline, then prosecutor.

Radcliff said he didn't know directly whether they came to "ask protection" for Mary.

Gingham then questioned the witness on his early activities at the scene of the slaying. Judge Radcliff suggested the attorney move closer to the witness to enable the jury to hear better.

Questioning turned to pictures showing the dead man in bed.

Gingham wanted to know if the Sheriff knew the bed clothing had been slightly moved before the sheriff arrived. Radcliff said he had no direct knowledge of it.

THE ATTORNEY asked the sheriff how he began his investigation—what he did and what he looked for. Gingham's manner was persistent and he shook off a state protest with the remark:

"He's the chief investigator. He can say he doesn't know if he wants to."

Gingham asked if he saw blood on the floor of the living room and Radcliff said he hadn't. Mention had been made of blood on a carpet in that room, and when the state pointed out there was no evidence of a rug in the living room, Gingham withdrew the question.

The attorney queried the Sheriff as to why he left Ella and Bonnie Ruff in charge of the house after the shooting. The sheriff indicated he saw no wrong in doing so.

Radcliff also admitted he did not ask Ella and Bonnie to take a paraffin test—to see whether they had fired a gun recently.

The attorney, continuing his questioning, arose from his seat and moved back and forth in front of the Sheriff. At time he shook a finger at the witness.

He was pressing the allegation that suspicion centered on Mary too early in the case, inferring authorities should have been likewise suspicious of Ella and Bonnie Ruff.

GINGHER recalled how Jim Creedon, private detective, went with the Sheriff and others to study the scene of the crime. Radcliff was asked to confirm what Ella Ruff allegedly told Creedon. The sheriff repeated he had heard nothing about blood said to have been found downstairs.

Gingham brought out that a handbag introduced in evidence late Thursday was not removed from the Ruff home until a few days after the shooting. The state claims it belongs to Mary and that it contained bullets when found.

Radcliff was questioned about the shotgun found on the back porch. He said he did not know details as to how the weapon got there.

Gingham turned to the property deed found in the Ruff car, and the Sheriff produced the document.

In an exchange between attorneys over procedure in entering the deed as evidence, the court asked the attorneys to "refrain from gratuitous remarks" between themselves.

The Sheriff said he had questioned Ella Ruff about "trouble between Junior and Mary" and that Ella told him they had only "the usual spats." He also told of questioning neighbors of the Ruffs in reference to the same subject, and that they mentioned Mary having bruises on her body.

ONE OF the neighbors mentioned by Radcliff was Homer Rapp, farm laborer who arrived about dawn at the Ruff house the morning of the slaying and who began work in a nearby field. The defense asked if Rapp saw lights in the house or signs of activity and the Sheriff said Rapp had said he did not.

The state protested to Gingham's line of questioning—on what Bus Driver Erville Thomas told the Sheriff.

Questioning then turned to what Ella Ruff told the sheriff about her struggle with Mary in the hallway. Radcliff said he was under the impression the struggle took "only a second or two."

THE SHERIFF quoted Ella Ruff as saying Mary "Ruff had a 'starey' look on her face during the tussling."

Gingham asked about the doorknob on Ruff's bedroom door at the head of the stairs. He also asked about a handprint on the wall of the hallway, near the point where Ella Ruff described the struggle.

Radcliff said he noted the doorknob in question had been broken. However, he could not recall clearly what Ella Ruff had told him about the handprint.

Gingham questioned the sheriff about fainting spells Mary had suffered while in custody, both in the jail and in Berger hospital.

Radcliff pointed out his department's budget limited the amount of care he was able to give the prisoner.

"Maybe you ought to look into it," Gingham observed. The state protested, and the court ordered the subject be dropped, remarking:

"THIS IS a murder trial, not a budget hearing."

"I wasn't aware," Gingham said, "that there had been budget difficulties."

"Did you talk to Bonnie Ruff about the tussle?" Gingham asked. The witness said he had, and that she told him substantially the same account related by Ella Ruff.

Radcliff said George Finch, undertaker, had suggested he be allowed to interview the defendant in the jail. He quoted Finch as saying he was a friend of the defendant and "I think she'll tell me the truth."

The interview, Radcliff said, was not held to his knowledge.

On redirect examination, Ammer stressed defense attorneys were in the Ruff home with investigators the day after the slaying.

Radcliff said he gave full cooperation to Creedon, the detective hired by the defense. He quoted Creedon as complimenting his work on the case.

RADCLIFF stated Creedon said he found only the same evidence as the Sheriff.

Radcliff testified Rapp, the hired man is hard of hearing and that his eyesight is bad.

The witness said, on recross examination, that Creedon "is a good man for his age" but that he "isn't the man he used to be." Radcliff added that Creedon is a man of integrity.

Bonnie Ruff was called to the stand as state witness at 11:42 a. m. She said she taught school for about 25 years, her last job being at Canton. She said she suffered an affliction in the muscles of her neck last Spring and was forced to discontinue teaching.

Attorney Ray Davis questioned Miss Ruff. He asked what she remembered about events the night of the slaying.

Bonnie Ruff said she was "quite close" behind her mother when Ella moved through the connecting cupboard and began struggling with Mary.

BONNIE said Mary's face at the time "didn't look normal, but her hair was combed."

Two sounds were made," she said. "I thought they were shots." Bonnie admitted she may have been able to help her mother in the struggle, "but I didn't think of it."

Bonnie testified there was a light in Ruff's bedroom. She said she could see her niece—Sandra Ruff—in the hallway although "the lights were out."

"I could see my niece very clearly," she said, "and the light had to come from my brother's bedroom."

The witness broke down for a moment, but continued to testify.

Bonnie said it seemed about 20 minutes between the time of the struggle and the time a car moved down the lane.

She said "it was very dark outside" and that she could not recognize the car.

RELATING events immediately after the shooting, Bonnie said she heard Young Danny say: "Why did you do that?"

Bonnie said she and her mother heard noises in the house after the car moved down the lane. Bonnie told of two shots they heard downstairs while in their barricaded room, and before the automobile appeared.

Noon recess was then called.

Best 'Catch' Of Mushrooms Seen In City

Circleville's downtown businessmen shouldn't be too hasty in calling the cops if they notice someone poking around in alleyways behind their stores.

True, they might be "casing the joint" with a future burglary in mind.

But, more likely after an incident which happened Thursday, they will be carrying a paper bag and indulging in their favorite Springtime sport — hunting mushrooms.

Thursday's bright sunshine and Summerlike temperatures lured a great number of Circleville mushroom hunters into leaf-littered woods of the county.

The biggest "catch" reported for the day, however, was by a Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. lineman working right in the heart of Circleville.

Roy Harrington was working on a line behind business places in the northeast corner of Court and Main Sts. when he spotted a mushroom. Then he spotted some more.

In all, Harrington, himself a mushroom-hunter, pinched off 22 big, plump, black-sponge mushrooms.

The luscious fungi were taken from a musty, extremely narrow passageway where the sun probably penetrates only at high noon.

Drive Starts On Rheumatic Fever Control

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (U) — A nationwide preventive campaign against rheumatic fever was launched today.

It is the first large-scale effort to put into general use the recently-marshaled evidence that recurrences of rheumatic fever can be prevented by daily use of penicillin or sulfa drug.

The plan is to have some four million Americans, most of them school children, receive a dose of one of the drugs every day for a period of years.

The various state and local heart associations pledged themselves to the effort of the American Heart Association.

The project, to be undertaken by the state and local associations throughout the country, is designed to aid the three per cent of the population who have had at least one "bout" of rheumatic fever.

That's the malady which is responsible for most of the heart disease in children and a large share of heart trouble in young adults. It causes more deaths in the first two decades of life than all other communicable diseases.

Local heart associations won't furnish free penicillin or sulfa drug, or give actual treatment. But they will take the initiative in communities towards encouraging doctors to use the method and also towards educating the public on the scientific findings.

Legion Seeking Loaned Equipment

A plea was made Friday by Circleville's American Legion in an effort to locate hospital beds, wheel chairs and crutches loaned out through the community.

Legion officials said many pieces of such gear has been loaned out to persons in the community and there is no record now of where the equipment may be.

Persons having such items borrowed from the Legion may tell their location by telephoning James P. Shea at 351.

Deputy Finds Women Rugged In Rush For Seating At Trial

Husky Bill Miller, auxiliary deputy in the sheriff's department, admitted Thursday that women spectators at the Ruff trial can hit with the impact of a football team. Miller was on the receiving end of much of the squeeze when the courtroom doors opened for the day's session and an early crowd of nearly 100 persons crushed through the doorway.

"One minute they're all standing out there in the hall sort of quiet-like," he said, "and the next thing you know they're charging right at you!"

Auxiliary Deputy Winfield Koch was also assigned to the busy main-door duty for Thursday's sessions.

Outside noises gave the listeners a few restless moments, but most of the time the courtroom was so hushed a fast typist in Clerk of Courts Jim Mowery's office could be heard hitting the carriage-return.

JUDGE WILLIAM D. Radcliff since the start of the trial has been alert to the need of having all spoken statements clearly heard. At one point Thursday, when a freight train whistle was blasting toward the wide-open windows, the court called a brief halt with a motion toward the railroad tracks.

The hum of electric fans was accepted as a necessary handicap for the cause of clear-hearing in the sweltering courtroom.

Newspapermen and some of the spectators looked with envy on men jurors who doffed their coats for the afternoon session. Finally they tried it themselves—but not for long. Sympathetic scribes agreed with Judge Radcliff, wearing a robe, probably feels the heat worst of all.

A gorgeous magnolia tree blooming outside the courtroom drew admiring comments from the window-gazers.

Many spectators mistook Malcolm Miller, assisting defense counsel, as a brother of the defendant. Her brother is a Lima attorney.

While Prosecutor Bill Ammer handled unloaded shotguns—admitted as evidence at the trial—there was grinning uneasiness, no matter which direction he pointed them.

Two women in the rear of the courtroom started a premature all-out conversation as Judge Radcliff was preparing to recess the morning session. Bystanders quickly let them know they were being heard all over the premises.

Men smokers, abstaining during the trial inside the courtroom, have discovered the finest tobacco in the world. It's the kind—any kind—that drifts in on the springtime breezes.

You, Too, Can Be Free-Loader With Patience, Brass And Gall

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Do you want to beat the high cost of living? One sure way is to become a free loader. Millions of Americans have learned to follow this quick, easy path to a rich full life they could otherwise never afford.

You, too, can become one. All it takes is a little patience, a callous on your conscience, a lot of brass and gall, and the hide of an elderly elephant.

Free loading is merely hitch-hiking through life on other people's good will. It is panhandling raised to a pure art form.

In the old days a free loader was a frowsy character who sidled through a saloon door when the bartender's back was turned and wolfed his way through the free lunch counter without buying a five-cent beer. Everybody knew who he was and nobody had any respect for him.

"Throw the bum out!" rang the cry and out the bum was pitched. Those innocent times are gone.

U.S., Germans Testing Red Peace Moves

WASHINGTON (AP)—Top American officials today saw little chance Russia would accept an American-German challenge to permit genuinely free elections in Communist-ruled East Germany.

President Eisenhower and German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, in a move to test Russia's current peace offensive, urged Moscow to agree to this and also free some 300,000 German war prisoners still in Soviet hands.

The joint American-German appeal came in a formal communication announcing the results of three days of intensive talks between Eisenhower, Secretary of State Dulles and a German delegation headed by Adenauer.

Adenauer arranged to leave by plane today for San Francisco, to begin a nine-day cross country tour before returning to Germany.

As he prepared to wind up the first visit a German chancellor ever has made to the U. S., Adenauer could point to these chief achievements during his conferences:

1. A pledge the U. S. will supply guns, tanks, planes, and other military equipment needed to arm 12 German divisions which will join the six-nation European army, once created.

2. A promise the U. S. is sympathetically considering financial aid for beleaguered Western Berlin and thousands of refugees flocking into Western zones from Eastern Germany.

In return, Adenauer gave these pledges:

1. Controls aimed at choking off shipment of strategic materials to Communist nations will be tightened by "supplementary measures" aimed at barring transportation through Germany.

2. An early agreement with France will be sought to settle the bitter dispute over the future of the industrial Saar border territory.

Following graduation, students are assigned to field units throughout the world, where they will put to practical use in the training they have been given.

Red Crooner Ends Spiel Bitterly

SEOUL (AP)—Sweet and low the woman's voice crooned over a Communist loudspeaker last night to U. S. Marines in the Panmunjom sector.

Then came the song, "I dream of you."

"The war is over. To Hell with Eisenhower."

Cooling Kremlin Is Seen Aiding U.S. Taxpayer

Wall Street Wishful Thinkers See Slash In Federal Revenue

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — The cooling Kremlin may be coming to the aid of the American taxpayer.

That, at least, is the wishful-thinking in some quarters in wall street. They reason that Moscow's peace overtures are already beginning to show signs of lowering U. S. government spending plans. If spending drops, taxes could be cut. And public demand likely would force a tax cut.

Signs of the change as cited by these observers include:

1. The U. S. Treasury says it will need to raise only two billion more dollars to keep its cash balance on June 30 at its present level of six billion dollars. Wall Street had figured prior to the Russian peace offensive that U. S. government defense spending plans would call for a larger program of Treasury financing.

2. Tool manufacturers believe another stretch-out in the defense program may be in the works. They report renewed stretch-outs or cancellations of some orders connected with the defense program.

The Air Force is cancelling orders for 100 million dollars worth of J-47 jet engines — but giving as the official reason that the engines have proved more efficient than expected and therefore they can be operated twice as long between overhauls as first thought possible.

A number of manufacturers of other defense goods are predicting cancellations of orders may reach as high as 20 percent, if peace comes. Still others are expecting a further stretch-out of delivery times on orders.

All of this would cut back the amount the government will be spending in the coming fiscal year. Hence the hope for tax cuts.

A third factor cited is the evident boost the peace talk is giving to the economy drive in Congress. Wall Streeters admit much of their hope is based on wishful thinking. But they were quick to fasten onto the U. S. Treasury's refinancing plans as a sign less spending is in prospect.

Most of them had expected that when the Treasury announced its long-term bond issue it would go after more than the one billion dollars it will seek to raise next Monday.

And the fact it will seek another billion dollars through more 91-day bills, its shortest-term security, was taken to mean the Treasury feels it won't be too badly pressed for cash in the second half of the year.

The new Treasury policy has been to turn to more long-term bonds and away from the short-term bills which this administration disparages as inflationary. Wall Street feels that the Treasury now thinks it won't need money

Organic Feed Is Beneficial For Farm Pond

Farmers are turning to history to find the proper way to feed their fish ponds.

There are some 250,000 farm ponds already built in the United States, and the Soil Conservation Service predicts one million more will be built in the next 20 years.

Ponds supply water for fire protection, home and barn needs, and emergency irrigation. Farm boys say they make fine swimming holes, too.

Properly fertilized, a farm pond can yield over 300 pounds of fish per acre—more pounds of food than the same acre of land could produce in beef.

The ancient Romans made a science of farm ponds. Today's farmers are learning from them that manure is an excellent fertilizer for ponds. One thousand pounds per acre per year, spread in equal amounts once a month during warm weather, are recommended.

COMPOST—rotted animal and vegetable wastes—may be substituted. Finely ground phosphate rock, 500 pounds per surface acre of water, also makes for more and bigger fish.

The fertilizer goes to feed the lowest organisms in the pond food chain, the microscopic algae and plankton. Richly-fed with organic fertilizers, these algae are very high in protein. The fish that eat them, in turn, provide excellent protein-rich nourishment for the farm family. Protein is an element sadly lacking in many people's diet.

Proper fertilization, plus steady fishing, establishes a balance between the food organisms and the fish in the pond and insures a steady yield of fish.

Lime will reduce algae-caused scum on the surface of the water, but never use the commonly recommended copper sulphate.

In more than two parts per million, it will kill everything living in the pond. Silt from eroding fields will also injure the algae and fish.

The Romans and Chinese used to rotate their fields, keeping them in grain for five years, then flooding them and growing fish for the next five.

American farmers have found they, too, can improve their soil by this method. They now rotate fields

Glamor Is Only Chemistry, Says Veteran Screen Actor

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

That thing called glamor is strictly chemistry, says Charles Coburn, the monocle-wearing veteran of stage and screen, who has been exposed to more of it than most men during his 60 years as an actor, producer and movie star.

The word glamor is used much too loosely, says the benign Coburn, because it is possessed by only a few women in each generation—and they are the lucky ones who are born with it. Asked to define this elusive but explosive quality, Hollywood's grand old man chewed meditatively on his brunch toast and said:

"When a woman has it, she's like a magnet, drawing all men to her. She's like a hypnotist, putting her subjects in a trance, so that they do as she desires, without their own volition. She doesn't have to be beautiful—she may be actually ugly. But if she's born with this rare quality, the world is her apple."

Coburn has either managed or acted with most of the great stars of the stage and screen of the last three generations. But of all the beauties with whom he has shared the spotlight, he can name only a few who, in his opinion, had "that certain thing." Of all of them, the most glamorous, he says, was the late Minnie Maddern Fiske, first lady of the stage at the turn of the century. Says he:

"Aside from my wife, Mrs. Fiske was the most glamorous woman I have ever known. When she was on the stage, people forgot everything but her. Her magnetism reached out through the theater and drew the audience literally out of this world. I never thought of her as Mrs. Fiske, but as whatever character she was playing, because she was the character. That is what is meant by a great actress."

The nearest approach to Mrs. Fiske in today's roster of actresses, says Coburn, is Helen Hayes. He also admires Katharine Cornell. Among movie stars of the past, he remembers most vividly Clara Bow, the "it girl" of the '20's.

Winter's Threat To Life Less Marked Than 40 Years Ago

Winter's added threat to life is much less marked than it was 40 years ago.

A study of the monthly variation in deaths shows the Winter peak in the mortality curve to have flattened noticeably since the early years of this century.

The change is attributed in large measure to the remarkable progress made in the control of pneumonia and other respiratory infections.

"The leveling has not been as evident at the older ages as in other periods of life," statisticians observe, "primarily because respiratory complications still contribute to the death of many older persons with heart and other degenerative diseases."

"HOWEVER, even at ages 60 and over, the death rate is not as responsive to seasonal variations as it was in former years."

The current situation among the very young is in sharp contrast to that of a century ago when the death rate, particularly in densely populated areas, was highest during the Summer months because of major outbreaks of diarrhea and other intestinal diseases.

With improvement in milk and water supplies, garbage disposal, and sanitary conditions in general, the Summer peak gradually subsided.

Even after the turn of the century, statisticians point out, infants and young children still succumbed in largest numbers during the Summer. In 1907-1911, the death rate in New York state for children under five years of age was two-fifths higher in August than the average for the year as a whole.

By contrast, currently the Summer months are the safest of the year, for children as well as adults.

A RED GIFT RACKET

COMMUNIST-DOMINATED countries, eager to stockpile dollars and valuable medicines which one day may be used against the free world, are exploiting with increasing diligence the generosity of thousands of Americans who have relatives or friends behind the iron curtain.

Large cities in the U. S., having considerable population groups whose roots are in Eastern Europe, are select targets for this assault, the pressure coming with special vigor from Poland, Czechoslovakia and Hungary.

The formula is simple, involving a seemingly urgent letter to a friend or relative asking, sometimes begging, for expensive medicines, clothing or gift certificates.

It is well established that such letters are written under pressure from the Red authorities, and that the gifts sent in response to them either are confiscated by the government directly or wind up by devious ways in government hands.

The satellite governments have even established "official" agencies in some American cities for handling transactions between Americans and relatives in the slave states.

Americans who respond to these appeals, no matter how innocently, help the Communist cause. These appeals are no less insidious because they are more subtle than the racket worked by the Chinese Communist government, which extorted hundreds of thousands of dollars from Chinese in this country under threat of death for their relatives in China.

SPIRITUAL POVERTY

IT WOULD NOT be easy to devise a just punishment for the citizen who expresses the view that peace and disarmament would be a calamity for America—because he would lose his soft job and high standard of living.

Such citizens are utterly selfish. They are willing to accept prosperity based upon the blood of young Americans and upon the anguish of parted families. Widows, orphans, amputees and the wreckage of war mean nothing to them.

The no-peace-at-any-price folks must be rated as low grade citizens, hopelessly caught in their moral and spiritual poverty.

A date with Princess Margaret would cost $280 and the guy wouldn't even get to take her home, it says in a story Doris clipped to show the next guy who expects a good-night kiss for a buck-and-a-quarter evening.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Since the fall of the Roman Empire left Europe in disorder, constructive minds have often searched for a European unanimity of purpose and action. Charlemagne's empire might have spread out to include the whole of Europe, as it actually did include most of Western Europe. This empire fell apart.

Since Charlemagne, there have been a number of efforts to unite Europe by force, the two most notable in modern times being the empires of Napoleon and Hitler. But force does not change the mind of man, and when the use of military power lessens, the old lesions open again. The empires of both Napoleon and Hitler, having been established by military force, were destroyed by military force. After Napoleon, the peace was maintained by the Concert of Europe, but it was a 99-year peace without unity. In fact, during the 99 years of peace, nationalistic differences were emphasized. World War I put an end to that peace and in Europe articulated an unrealistic nationalism.

An effort was made through the League of Nations to establish a synthetic unity in Europe, and for that matter in all the world. This failed long before World War II because it was a political effort without either an economic or moral basis. Hitler's empire employed several methods to achieve unity—political propaganda, the elimination of population elements by mass murders, the projection of Nietzsche's ideas concerning an elite race, the Uebermensch, the Superman, the integration of all Germanic peoples into an economic state and, finally, war. Whereas Hitler might have united Europe, he failed.

The Russians tried to unify Europe under the leadership of Stalin and by the creation of a pseudo-religious movement out of Marxism. By ingenious diplomacy at Teheran and Yalta, by propaganda among the peoples and infiltration into governments, by economic unification, the absorptions of weaker nations on her borders, and by war, Russia has built one of the largest and best integrated empires in history. Yet, already there are signs that the period of growth has been arrested. Soviet Russia is standing still; her satellites are uneasy; her missionaries and agents abroad are frightened.

Meanwhile, the successor to the League of Nations, the United Nations, continues to labor for some kind of unity. The United Nations Charter is so involved a document and its methods are so complex that progress toward European unity had to be made outside it, in a series of conferences and agreements which have been astonishingly successful.

The first of these was the formation of the Benelux Customs Union in September, 1944. This is an economic union of Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. It has functioned admirably. If its principles could be extended to the whole of non-Russian Europe, the advantages would be enormous.

The Economic Commission for Europe was set up in March, 1947, and included Russian satellites as well as free countries—Belgium, Byelorussia, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, France, Greece, Iceland, Luxembourg, Netherlands, Norway, Poland, Sweden, Turkey, Ukraine, United Kingdom. Adhesions Following Surgery

By NERMAN H. BUNDESEN, M.D.

ADHESIONS are one of the severest complications of surgery. Adhesions are tough bands of tissue that grow after an operation. Their effect is not felt immediately after an operation, but it may take weeks or months for them to form.

In the abdomen, these bands of adhesions can compress the bowels and other organs and may even pinch the bowel shut, causing a condition known as bowel obstruction.

Preventive Measure

In performing operations, surgeons try to be as gentle as possible to help prevent adhesions. All raw surfaces are closed over with peritoneum, the glistening membranes that line the abdominal cavity, before the abdomen is closed, for this helps prevent adhesions from forming.

Once adhesions have formed they are difficult to correct. Operations to cut them out usually are not successful, for they regrow very readily. Many times additional operations are needed due to complications of these adhesions.

Other Causes

In many cases where there are adhesions, they developed following a surgical operation. However, adhesions can also form from an unoperated ruptured appendix, or infection of the abdominal organs.

It has been shown that talcum powder, when used as a lubricant on a surgeon's rubber gloves, can cause adhesions if some of the powder gets into the abdominal cavity. When this was shown, hospitals throughout the country replaced talcum powder with cornstarch for the gloves. This has cut down the number of adhesions in the abdomen greatly. In fact, a large per cent of our hospitals have now switched to cornstarch.

Caution Used

However, even cornstarch at times is not immune from causing some adhesions. Knowing this, surgeons are very cautious to see that any excess powder is removed from their gloves before starting an operation.

Modern surgery is constantly on the alert to find newer methods of preventing complications during an operation and while the patient is recovering.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

R. T.: One doctor told me that I had diverticulitis. Another said I had diverticulosis. What is the difference?

Answer: Diverticulosis is a disease in which there are small out-pocketings of the large intestine at various places. A person may have as many as one hundred of these. Usually, there are no symptoms from this disease. However, if inflammation occurs, the diverticulitis (the out-pocketings) become inflamed and infected and may cause bloody diarrhea with severe pain. There may be chills and fever along with these symptoms.

You're Telling Me!

By William Ritt
Central Press Writer

The Cleveland orchestra plans to give concerts before Indian night baseball games this summer. Featuring, no doubt, the works of Wagner (Richard, not Hans).

We can see the bleacherites, now, demanding to know what was the orchestra conductor's 1952 baton average.

Hungry Cleveland stadium grandstanders now have a greater choice—hot dogs with mustard or Mendelssohn, or both.

"Tiger Rag" might make a nice musical introduction to a Detroit game but somehow we can't visualize any Lake Erie horn blowers giving out with "The Yanks Are Coming" in honor of a certain Casey Stengel.

Here's a lovely idea—how about as the lights go on in the big ball-yard the musicians strike up with a soft rendition of "Glow Worm"?

Since the Tribe is strictly a big league outfit it will be most appropriate if the orchestra plays everything in a major key.

As players, the Indians mustn't kid the blue-clad dictators of baseball but what's to stop the music makers from giving 'em an assist by, as the umpire-in-chief stalks out to the plate, handing him the full "Syncopated Clock" treatment?

BLONDES DIE YOUNG

By BILL PETERS

Having found his sweetheart, Janey Nelson, murdered in a foul rooming house in Chicago, Detective Bill Canall dedicates himself to the grim task of finding her killer. For all that she'd been singing in a tawdry night club, she had been a fine, clean-living girl. What did her young brother, Bob Nelson, a drug addict, know of this crime? Terry Mitchell, an amiable young lady of the press, joins with Canall in his search for a killer.

CHAPTER SEVEN

TO ME, Clark street was a noisy, flamboyant one, flanked with cheap bars, clip joints, Army and Navy stores and all-night theaters. It was as loud as a freight yard when all the stock is rolling, and it was colored a wild orange-green from the neon signs that glowed above every bar, movie and shop. There were beggars, hustlers and tramps on the sidewalks, and nattily dressed Filipinos, suave and cheerful in tight-fitting suits and wide-brimmed white felt fedoras. Also, there were lots of ordinary people who were probably on their way home after a day's work. I saw a woman with a market basket, a mother with two kids, an electrician in greasy overalls and a priest.

All of this went by on the corners of my eyes. I wasn't daydreaming. I had Bob Nelson in the cross-hairs, and I wasn't really looking at anything else. He followed the right side of the street for two blocks, and then went over to the other side in the middle of a block. I went after him and slowed down when he turned into a bar called the Elephant. There was a neon sign of an elephant above it, and the windows and door were thickly curtained. I couldn't get a glimpse of the inside, so I took a post in front of a haberdashery shop a few doors away, and looked at some ties and shirts. It was nine o'clock. I decided to give him ten minutes.

He came out just under the wire. There was no change in his appearance; dope, if he'd gotten any, didn't work that fast. The only thing was that when he strolled away his pace was slow and easy. He was just a well-dressed college-looking kid, drifting along in a Clark street in no particular hurry. I let him get a block away and then pulled the knot out of my tie down an inch or so, unbuttoned my vest and walked into the bar called the Elephant. It was a black-and-tan joint, a narrow, low-ceilinged place and reeked of stale smoke, yesterday's beer and the bitter tang of disinfectant. There were a few whites at the bar, and three colored men sitting at a table just to the left of the entrance. A blonde with a bad complexion and thick make-up sat alone in a booth.

I glanced at the hand, then turned my head and looked into a pair of flat, light blue eyes that were set close together in a wide, banged-up face. They all belonged to a large, solidly built man in his forties, who wore a beige sport coat over a none-too-clean T shirt. He needed a shave and his breath was bad. There were ridges of cartilage over his eyes, and his nose had been broken and rebroken, until it was simply a flat, irregular piece of flesh between his cheekbones. Faces like his, the face of an old fighter, scare most people, but most people obviously don't stop to figure that a guy who was so easy to hit was probably no

news behind the news

WASHINGTON, April 10—Secretary Humphrey's plan to shift at least $100 billion of short-term government obligations into long-term holdings paying a higher interest rate has met strong opposition from two strangely contrasting groups. Both bankers and organized labor seem to prefer the Truman-Snyder "easy money" policies to the "hard money" program outlined by President Eisenhower in his inaugural address.

Although Humphrey's proposal appears to be a complicated financial matter involving only big dealers in and purchasers of federal securities, it will affect every consumer and borrower, since interest rates help to determine the price of every product on the market. If the scheme operates as some Treasury heads expect, it may lower the general level of prices by its deflationary effect.

RECESSION — But it will be such a sharp break with the 20-year regime of cheap money, heavy borrowing and skyscraper debts, both public and private, that it may cause a temporary slump or recession. Should Russia's present peace maneuvers lead to a cut in arms expenditures, the Humphrey innovation might prove unwise from an economic and political standpoint.

With all their other domestic and foreign difficulties, the Republicans could not endure the added burden of business stagnation, an industrial slowdown and unemployment. Although the Humphrey idea is basically sound, this may not be the proper moment for its introduction.

LOW INTEREST — Former President Truman and Secretary Snyder kept interest rates on government securities at a low figure in order to reduce the cost of carrying the $267 billion debt, which now totals about $6.4 billion a year, or more than the whole expense of running the federal establishment in Herbert Hoover's day.

Interest payments on government issues averaged about 2 per cent. At least $100 billion of the public debt was short-term stuff, ranging from certificates maturing in 91 days to five-year notes. It is this amount which Secretary

Humphrey would like to convert into long-term securities.

CONTRIBUTION — Besides reducing the cost of financing the swollen public debt, the Truman-Snyder interest rates also contributed to free-and-easy borrowing and spending by the general public. They helped to lay the foundation for our current inflationary structure.

The government's low interest rate, as always, affected the general rate that bankers and other lenders charged for the vast non-governmental debt, which has reached an all-time peak of $300 billion. Money and credit for homes, consumer goods and industrial expansion could be obtained for 4 per cent or less instead of the conventional 6 per cent.

Moreover, the banks regard and use short-term securities as money or liquid resources. Instead of holding them in their portfolios as an investment, they turned them into dollars again and again to finance their daily operations. It was floating cash in the financial blood stream, and it had a feverish effect on the nation's economic anatomy. To day's inflated wages and prices are the result.

REMEDY — Humphrey's tentative remedy is simplicity itself. The Cleveland industrialist proposes that this short-term, low-interest total of $100 billion, which falls due within the next five years, be converted into 30-year securities bearing an interest rate of 3 or 3 1/4 per cent.

In his opinion, banks, insurance companies, trust funds and similar institutions would buy these issues, hold them and take them off the market until maturity. Whereas this sum has served as a checking account under Truman-Snyder policies, he would transform it into a savings account. He believes that the resulting lowering of the general price level would more than offset the increased cost of carrying the public debt, which might amount to $1 billion annually.

The bankers, however, are not sure that they want to tie up their money for so long on this basis. They prefer greater fluidity and flexibility. And labor leaders, in their speeches and publications howl that the still tentative Humphrey program is designed to "enrich the bankers" at the expense of consumers.

Paul's Conversion at Damascus

JESUS APPEARED TO HIM, ASKING, "WHY PERSECUTEST THOU ME?"

Scripture—Acts 7:58—8:3; 9:1-30; 22:1-21; Galatians 1:1; Philippians 3:4-6.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

NEXT WEEK —April 13-19— is National Sunday School Week, sponsored by the Laymen's National Committee, Inc., the members of which "believe that the Sunday school is a great influence for good and that the training and inspiration which it gives to our boys and girls makes them better people and helps prepare for the responsibilities they will face as adults."

Today's lesson should give our young people something to think over because it tells of a fine, well-educated man who was obsessed by one idea—to destroy as quickly as possible some "upstarts" who were stirring people up with a new religion that threatened to supersede the old Jewish religion in which he had been carefully trained.

Converted to the new faith, however, he had the courage to espouse the cause with all the youthful enthusiasm he had shown before in fighting it, breaking with his old associates and fearlessly facing hatred, persecution and martyrdom.

We first see Paul watching impassively—if not with pleasure—the stoning of that splendid martyr, St. Stephen, whose face, at his trial, was "as it had been the face of an angel." He did not join in the stoning, but "Saul was con-

hesitant to obey, but being told of what had befallen Saul on his journey, and how the Lord had chosen him "to bear My name before the Gentiles, and kings, and the children of Israel," he gladly went to find him.

He went into the house, and putting his hands on Saul, said, "Brother Saul, the Lord, even Jesus, that appeared unto thee in the way as thou camest, hath sent me, that thou mightest receive thy sight, and be filled with the Holy Ghost."

Immediately Saul saw and was baptized. Saul stayed with the disciples for some days, and he preached the gospel in the synagogue, to the amazement of all who heard him.

The persecution that he hoped to inflict on the disciples now faced him. Certain Jews plotted to kill him, but the disciples took care of him. One night they let him down the wall of the house in a basket and he escaped and went to Jerusalem.

There Saul went to the disciples, expecting to join with them, but they distrusted his conversion. Barnabas took him to the Apostles, however, and told how Saul had been preaching boldly in Damascus in the name of Jesus, and then they accepted him as one of them.

"And he spake boldly in the name of the Lord Jesus and dissenting unto his death," and the madmen laid down their clothes at his feet.

Then Saul, "breathing out threatenings and slaughter against the disciples of the Lord, went unto the high priests." He asked them for letters to the synagogue at Damascus, so that he might search out any Christians in that city—men or women—and bring them bound to Jerusalem.

On his journey to Damascus, coming near the city, "suddenly there shined around about him a light from heaven." Saul fell to the earth and he heard a voice saying, "Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou Me?"

"Who art Thou, Lord?" Saul asked, trembling and astonished, "What wilt Thou have me do?" And the answer was: "Arise, and go into the city, and it shall be told thee what thou must do."

When Saul rose, he was blind, but his companions led him to the city where he was three days without sight, and neither ate nor drank.

In Damascus lived a disciple of Jesus named Ananias, and he saw the Lord in a vision. He was told to go into the Street called Straight, and ask in a certain house for "one called Saul of Tarsus, for, behold, he prayeth."

Ananias had heard of this man who had made himself a terror to Christians, so he was a little put against the Grecians, but they went about to slay him." When the apostles knew this they brought him to Caesarea and sent him to Tarsus, his native city.

Much later Saul, whom we now call Paul, faced death again at the hands of the Jews of Asia, who began beating him, but the chief captain of the Romans, with his soldiers rescued Paul and took him, bound, to the castle. As he was about to be led into the prison he asked the captain if he might speak to the people, telling the captain who he was, and the captain consented.

Then Paul spoke to the crowd which had been trying to kill him, talking in Hebrew. He told them where he was born and how, in Jerusalem, he had obtained his education from Gamaliel, a member of the Sanhedrin, and how he had been active in persecuting the Christians, even standing by, consenting to the death of Stephen.

He told them of the vision he had when going to Damascus, and how he had been converted and ever since had been zealous in preaching and teaching the gospel of Christ, who had told him to preach to the Gentiles.

The courage to change our minds, no matter what others may think of us; and to speak out without fear the things we know to be true and right, are two of the lessons we may well learn from Paul's story.

World Today

By James Marlow
Associated Press

WASHINGTON (P)—There is no clearer illustration of the remoteness of peace with Russia than two statements issued late yesterday, one in New York, the other in Washington.

Premier Malenkov has been talking peace since Stalin died. His representative in the United Nations, Andrei Y. Vishinsky, got up there yesterday and declared among other things:

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the Schuman Plan, the European Defense Community and plans for re-arming West Germany must be abandoned; the atom bomb must be banned at once; the U. S. must stop building up its own arms.

The No. 1 trouble with the proposals was that they were not new. Vishinsky had talked the same way while Stalin was alive. What he said showed once again that:

The West's economic and military build up is bothering Russia. This probably reveals precisely why Malenkov is talking peace so hard: To slow it down or scuttle it before it gets too far advanced.

In Washington, after three days of conferences among President Eisenhower, West Germany's Chancellor Adenauer, Secretary of State Dulles and other officials, the State Department issued a statement on where they agreed.

All of it involved Germany but in it these officials:

Challenged Russia to show its good intentions by letting the East Germans have truly free elections; said they were convinced there can be no lasting solution of the German problem unless Germany is reunited peacefully and democratically; agreed West Germany must be re-armed as part of a single European army and that the U. S. would help West Germany rearm.

Until this statement the Russians had been drenching Western Europe with their peace propaganda without much challenge from the U. S. to get down to cases on what it would do about some of the most important problems.

Eisenhower had told a news conference he would meet the Russians halfway. And Dulles last week said Russia could show its good heart by agreeing on a peace treaty for Austria.

But by throwing Germany at the Russians, since final settlement on Germany is one of the keystones to any real peace, the Eisenhower-Adenauer agreement offset some of the Russian propaganda.

There can be no better testing

Chevrolet's improved Velvet-Pressure Jumbo-Drum Brakes give maximum stopping power with maximum ease of application

Chevrolet owners have long been convinced that they have the safest as well as the largest brakes to be found on any low-priced car.

And now, for 1953, our engineers have made these brakes even more efficient by installing a new hydraulic master cylinder, increasing brake responsiveness while decreasing pedal effort, and adopting a new foot-form brake pedal which provides easier, more natural contact with the foot.

The results are much smoother, more responsive brake action . . . with up to 23% less pedal pressure . . . and a soft, velvety feel of operation hitherto found only in higher-priced cars.

Realize, too, that here is the only low-priced car with sturdy Fisher Unisteel Construction, Safety Plate Glass in windshield and all windows of sedans and coupes, extra-easy Power Steering* and many other important safety factors, and you'll understand why owners rate the new Chevrolet tops in safety-protection as well as in beauty and performance.

Come in; see and drive this thrillingly advanced car at your first opportunity.

Tigers Lose 17-2 In 1st Hardball Test

Circleville's Red and Black Tiger baseball team fell to a 17-2 defeat Thursday in its opening game of the 1953 season at the home of the Chillicothe Cavaliers.

Tiger swatters held their own in the encounter until the fourth inning, when the roof fell in. Chillicothe collected 14 runs in that frame.

Chillicothe opened Thursday's encounter with a brace of runs in the first inning while blanking the Tigers.

Circleville retaliated in the second however, when Pitcher Bob Turner drove in a pair of teammates to knot the score at 2-0.

THE CAVALIERS pushed into a 3-2 advantage in the last of the second frame with a single marker, and both teams went scoreless in the third.

Chillicothe caught up with the CHS'ers in the fourth, however, driving in 14 encounters on seven hits and five walks by Pitchers Turner and Ron Bennington and some errors. Both teams cleaned out the rest of the frames without score.

Cavalier Hurler Manion allowed six free trips during the fracas, but made up for the slips by fanning 17 of the CHS batsmen.

Circleville's next contest will be an SCOL match Tuesday at Greenfield McClain. Box score of the opening Tiger test follows:

Broncos Defeat Monroe, Scioto

Ashville's Bronco baseball team put in its bid as a top contender for the county league flag Wednesday and Thursday with wins over Monroe and Scioto.

The Broncos, behind three-hit hurling of Charles Hardin, defeated Monroe on Wednesday afternoon in a 20-1 set-to.

And Thursday afternoon, the Broncos outlasted the invading Bufalos of Scioto Township to collect a 14-11 win. Ronnie Wilson was winning hurler in the Thursday test, allowing only one hit before he was replaced by Jack Hutchinson, while Bill Martin and Ray Beavers did honors for the Sciotoans. Hutchinson gave up six hits in relief for the Broncos, while Martin and Beavers allowed 15 Ashville safeties.

Ashville's next test will be Monday against invading Stoutsville Indians.

Lakers Seeking To Wrap Up Title

NEW YORK (AP)—Minneapolis can wrap up its second straight National Basketball Association playoff title at the expense of New York tonight—and the Knicks are still seeking a formula to stop the Lakers in this "must" game.

New York started the current playoffs with a victory but has been unable to click since then as the defending champions rolled up three wins—the last two on the 69th Regiment Armory floor here.

Should the Knicks triumph, games are scheduled in Minneapolis Sunday and Wednesday, as needed.

Hornets Collect Win Over Barons

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Pittsburgh Hornets breathed confidence today in the wake of their first victory over the Cleveland Barons in the best of seven series for the American Hockey League's Calder Cup.

After a comparatively easy 5-2 win over the Barons Thursday night, the Hornets to a man vowed they would square the series at two games apiece when it resumes here Saturday night.

It may have been because they were playing on home ice, but the Hornets hardly resembled the team that lost 2-0 and 3-2 decisions to the Barons at Cleveland.

his life with a razor blade Wednesday night. He was given two blood transfusions and doctors said he had been taken off the critical list.

Redlegs Due To Appear In Home Town

CINCINNATI (AP)—Most of the Cincinnati Redlegs were here Wednesday but this is the day the team will have its 1953 debut before home town fans.

The Redlegs will meet the Detroit Tigers, the same club they slaughtered in Columbus Thursday by a 13-3 score.

The principal interest among the fans was to get a preview look at the team manager Rogers Hornsby as he put together for the 1953 National League pennant race.

Today Herman Wehmeier, a home town boy, was listed by Hornsby as his pitcher against Detroit's youthful star, Billy Hoelt.

In Columbus, the Redlegs had a field day at the expense of Ned Garver, one of the American League's top hurlers two years ago and slated to be one of the Tigers' best this season.

They clubbed him for 10 runs in five innings and then added three more off Ray Herbert. Five of Cincinnati's 14 hits were home runs and four were doubles.

Gus Bell got two of the homers and Rocky Bridges, Ted Kluszewski and Andy Seminick got one.

Bud Podbielniak, already nominated to be Cincinnati's opening day pitcher Monday, and Howie Judson had little trouble holding the Tigers in check.

Strange Boxers Slated For TV

NEW YORK (AP)—Don't be surprised when Randy Sandy and Jimmy Beau pop up on your television screen tonight instead of Rocky Marciano and Jersey Joe Walcott.

Tonight was the original date for the heavyweight title return bout in Chicago Stadium. But an injury to Rocky's nose forced a postponement until May 15.

Sandy, a skinny, 22-year-old New York middleweight, meets Beau, of New Canaan, Conn., in the main 10 rounder at St. Nicholas Arena. Sandy is 9 to 5 choice.

Man Is Indicted

DELAWARE (AP)—The grand jury Thursday indicted Robert B. Roison Jr., 25, on two counts of first degree murder in the death of Chelsea Joyce Halley, 17, of Columbus. Robinson, the father of two children, claims the girl died in a suicide pact March 29.

Babe Zaharias Under Observation

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP)—Babe Dikrikson Zaharias kept the traditional "stiff upper lip" today as physicians continued tests to determine the malady that threatens to end her great athletic career.

The famed woman golfer quit a tour after examination by a physician at Ft. Worth revealed a serious condition. She came back to Beaumont, where she got her start toward fame as the world's outstanding feminine athlete, and entered a hospital Thursday.

Mrs. Zaharias was voted the outstanding woman athlete of the half-century in an Associated Press poll.

The Dunkirk Treaty of Alliance was signed between Great Britain and France on March 4, 1947 and was followed by the Brussels Treaty of 1948 between the Benelux countries and France and Great Britain, strengthening the Benelux concept of a European customs union.

This was followed by the agreement for the Organization for European Economic Cooperation (the Marshall Plan) in Paris on April 16, 1948. This included the countries which we now term Western Europe, supported by the United States. It is to be noted that Turkey and Greece here take their places among Western countries.

On December 28, 1948, in London, the international Ruhr Authority, among Belgium, France, West Germany, Netherlands, Luxembourg, United Kingdom and the United States, was arranged, taking that area of contention out of danger to Germany and France.

Then came the North Atlantic Treaty (Washington, 1949) which established a comity among Western European countries and actually stopped the further advance of Russia in Europe.

It was strengthened by the Council of Europe (1949) and the European Defense Community (1952). These latter agreements are popularly referred to as NATO.

One other step toward European unity must be referred to. This is the European Coal and Steel Community (the Schuman Plan), agreed to in 1951 and now actually functioning. This may save the economy of Western Europe.

Champions Picked To Keep Crowns

NEW YORK (AP)—If the New York Yankees and the Brooklyn Dodgers meet in the World Series again this fall don't say you weren't given fair warning. An Associated Press poll of the Baseball Writers' Association shows the experts are stringing along with last year's major league winners.

The Dodgers got the biggest vote as 105 of the 142 participating writers selected them to fly the National League championship colors for the third time in five years. Eighty-seven said New York's American League entry would make it five titles in a row.

Spittlebug Control Offers Boosted Production Of Hay

Best Outlines Procedure For County Farms

Clover and alfalfa pasture and hay yields can be increased from 25 to 50 percent when they are sprayed for spittlebug control.

According to research work done at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station over the last five years, $1 invested in material can well increase hay and pasture yields by as much as one-half ton per acre.

Meadows and pastures should be sprayed in Pickaway County between April 20 and May 5. Usually, the earlier spraying will show the most benefit.

County Agent Larry Best recommends the following procedures:

Use benzene hexachloride (BHC), toxaphene or methoxychlor.

Ambulances Too Swift, Medics Say

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Do ambulances go too fast?

Some doctors think so and have brought the subject before the Duval County Medical Society.

"Only 4.2 per cent of all ambulance patients transported might possibly be called emergencies," Dr. L. L. Parks said in the report of a survey. And, he added:

"It is believed that if the ambulances were required to observe normal speed limits and not be permitted to break red lights or use sirens, the number of lives lost by observing normal traffic regulations probably would not be more than the number of people injured and killed at the present time by speeding ambulances."

Black Cancer Curb Found In New Drug

CHICAGO (AP)—Discovery of the first drug stopping the speedy and almost-always fatal black cancer, melanoma, was announced today.

It works only for a time. But it has banished this dread cancer in one human for at least a year, and has helped a few others.

Until now there has not been any drug or treatment, except surgery at the very earliest signs, which has had the slightest effect upon melanoma. This dark cancerous growth always starts somewhere on the skin, then spreads with distressing rapidity inside the body.

This heartening step in chemical warfare upon cancer was reported to the American Association for Cancer Research by Doctors Farber, Virginia Downing, and Majib Abu-Haydar of the Children's Cancer Research Foundation and Department of Pathology, Harvard Medical School, Boston.

TEPA has been used so far upon 17 humans with melanomas, Dr. Farber said. It temporarily knocked out the cancers in five. The other 12 were persons in whom the cancers already had spread to internal organs.

Work on mice indicates that Tapa might entirely abolish human melanomas if they were caught very early, said Dr. Farber. Melanomas account for about three per cent of all cancer deaths.

Defense Questions Sheriff About Investigation

Radcliff Main Figure In Friday Session; Victim's Sister Called

Pickaway County Sheriff Charles Radcliff was the central character Friday in the first-degree murder trial of Mary Agnes Ruff in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court.

The Sheriff, who took the stand as state's witness late Thursday, continued testimony Friday facing an intensive cross-examination by the defense.

Chief theme of the defense parrying was an attempt to assert the Sheriff was too hasty in affixing suspicion on the farm-wife, while neglecting other principals in the case.

Defense attorneys attempted to assert that while the Sheriff was collecting evidence against the accused woman, her mother-in-law and sister-in-law were permitted free run of the Ruff house, scene of the fatal shooting.

OTHER KEY figure in Friday's session, fifth day of the trial, was Bonnie Ruff, 47-year-old sister of the victim.

Mary Ruff "didn't look normal" while struggling in the Ruff home a moment after the fatal shots were fired.

That was testimony given by Bonnie Ruff as she took the stand for direct examination a short time before the noon recess.

Questioned by Attorney Ray Davis, assistant prosecutor, Bonnie Ruff related what she remembered of the minutes immediately after she and her mother, Ella, were awakened by shots in the Ruff farmhouse near South Bloomfield on the morning of Jan. 15.

She said she watched her mother struggle with the 34-year-old defendant in an upstairs hallway.

"MARY'S FACE" didn't look normal," she said, "but her hair was combed."

Bonnie Ruff, like her mother, said she believes two shots were fired from a gun held by Mary Ruff during the tussling.

"Two sounds were made; I thought they were shots," the sister of the victim testified.

Bonnie Ruff followed Pickaway County Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff to the witness stand.

Defense Attorney Paul Genger subjected the Sheriff to an intensive cross-examination for more than two hours.

By a line of questioning that brought several objections from

Defense Boss Asks Senate To Relax Ban

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson has asked members of the Senate Armed Services Committee to waive their stock disposal rule so he can hire two more big businessmen as top aides.

The battle over Wilson's own nomination, which ended in a decision that he had to promise to dispose of his General Motors stock before being confirmed, touched off the first big appointment fuss of the new Eisenhower administration.

The defense secretary's move to reopen the touchy political situation seemed likely to bring flat refusal from Armed Services Committee members. Senators willing to discuss the matter predicted the committee will not relent in its requirements that defense officials dispose of their industrial holdings.

The law says that no federal official shall do business with any firm in which he has even an indirect financial interest.

Wilson was reported to have suggested the unification act be amended to give him two additional assistant secretaries. He now has three such aides, paid $15,000 yearly.

Wilson was said to have told committee members he is having extreme difficulty in enlisting the men he wants because the prospective appointees are reluctant to dispose of their stocks.

Sen. Duff (R-Pa.), said he thinks the committee would be unanimously opposed to changing its rule.

"What applies to one, applies to all," Duff declared.

Roks Recapture Hill From Reds

SEOUL (AP)—South Korean infantrymen stormed back to the top of Texas Hill on the central front today after Chinese Communists hurled three attacks against the key outpost and overran it.

The Reds threw an estimated 250 men into their latest assault against the strategic knob which has changed hands more than a half dozen times recently. A Roks spokesman said the first Chinese force which hit the outpost was wiped out.

Phone Service Rules Offered

Ohio House Proposes Tighter Regulations

COLUMBUS (AP)—Widespread complaints about high rates for poor telephone service began to show results today in the Ohio Legislature.

Members of the House Judiciary Committee unveiled proposed changes in public utility laws to require improved service, especially in rural areas.

The changes would grant sweeping powers to the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio to deal with firms that subscribers say are unable to give adequate service despite rate increases.

The measure proposed authority for PUCO to:

Make investigations and set standards of service.

Authorize service in areas without phones or lacking adequate service.

Order merger of firms giving inadequate service or authorize service by other companies.

REQUIRE FIRMS to maintain proper depreciation or deferred maintenance accounts.

Require company income statements.

Require complete financial statements in rate increase applications.

Open records to interested parties or their attorneys.

Keep complete records of hearings on contested cases.

Make it prima facie evidence of inadequate service after Jan. 1, 1955, for firms with more than 500 subscribers to have more than 10 phones on a party line.

Make it unlawful for firms to continue operations after failure to comply with PUCO orders to correct service faults.

Ban use of funds from stock or bond issues for expansion if service is inadequate.

Ban cash or stock dividends to shareholders by firms in violation of PUCO orders.

Increase penalties through courts for failure to comply with PUCO orders for phone service improvements from a maximum $1,000 to $5,000 a day.

Ignition Trouble Stalls Speed Try

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP)—Ignition trouble and a dry oil line Thursday ended Joe de Bona's attempt to regain the transcontinental speed record for propeller driven planes he lost in 1950.

The 40-year-old pilot landed at Fort Wayne's Baer Field a few seconds less than four hours and 13 minutes after he took off from Burbank, Calif., in a redesigned P-51 Mustang. He was aiming at the record of four hours, 52 minutes, 58 seconds set by Paul Mantz two years ago.

He said the deed was dated January 10—five days before the day of the tragedy—and that it was made from Mrs. Grace Wentworth of Circleville to Daniel Ruff Jr., the victim. Mrs. Wentworth is an aunt of the dead man.

Radcliff said the deed involved about 340 acres of land. Asked if it was "signed or notarized," he replied in the affirmative. However, he added, it had not been recorded.

The sheriff, last state witness called Thursday, took the stand at 3:22 p. m. Direct examination by Prosecutor William Ammer ended about 4:25 p. m.

Two shotguns were identified by the sheriff as those found at the scene of the crime and were admitted as evidence. One was found

Senators Await Botts Report

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate judiciary subcommittee is awaiting a report on an investigation of an objection lodged against the nomination of Howard C. Botts, former sheriff of Clinton County, O., to be U. S. marshal in Southern Ohio.

Botts is from Wilmington.

Action on Botts' nomination was put off last week after William Sweet, Clinton County juvenile probation officer, protested to the subcommittee, President Eisenhower and Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio).

George Green, a subcommittee staffer, went to Wilmington earlier this week to check up.

Air Force Shuns Town's Protest

CLEVELAND (AP)—Cuyahoga Heights is going to get a $40 million government industry, the Air Force says, whether the suburb likes it or not.

The Air Force told the Aluminum Co. of America Thursday night to go ahead and construct a forging press plant despite the village's refusal to issue a building permit. Cuyahoga Heights officials opposed the plan because federal properties are exempt from taxes.

America Warning Free World To Keep Its Unity

Statement Comes After Soviet Delegate Hints Malenkov Policy Little Different From Stalin's

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The U. S. warned the free world today against abandoning its policy of strength and unity because of conciliatory gestures from the Kremlin.

U. S. Delegate Ernest A. Gross told the UN's 60-nation Political Committee that it was the West's very policy of strength and unity which had brought about such gestures and that eventually it would oblige the Soviet government to change its policies completely.

"MOST OF US feel the time will come when the Soviet government will find it necessary to modify its policy. If so it will be because of our policy of strength and unity. We must not abandon that strength," he declared.

Gross deplored reintroduction of an omnibus Polish peace package and said the UN has already rejected all major points in it. He specifically regretted the bringing up of the Korean problem here at this time.

"No resolution on Korea is necessary or desirable at this time," he declared. "We must avoid any action which might jeopardize the talks at Panmunjom."

The Gross statements came after an address by Soviet Delegate Andrei Vishinsky indicated before the committee that Premier Georgi Malenkov's policies were little different from Stalin's.

Gross labeled Vishinsky's speech "stale, dull and regressive."

In his address Thursday the Soviet diplomat outlined what he believed to be the proper steps to world peace.

These include an across the board one-third arms cut, immediate prohibition of the atomic bomb, dissolution of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, admission of Communist China to the UN and continued demilitarization of Germany.

The delegates have already voted down these ideas. Their revival by Vishinsky punctured bubbles of optimism which many delegates had blown from Soviet peace breezes apparently wafting from the Kremlin.

THEY HAD EXPECTED Vishinsky to come up with specific conciliation suggestions to firm up propaganda emanating from Communist sources and were disillusioned when he didn't.

Vishinsky said the Soviet Union's policy was "unswerving for peace." Delegates, studying his speech, agreed that at least it was unswerving.

Obviously surprised that Vishinsky's proposals did not reflect the apparent new trend of conciliation coming from Moscow, Gross told Vishinsky the American people are "willing to go half way."

"The question is: Half-way to what?" Gross added.

Dropping his old-time belligerence and insults, Vishinsky in calm tones had told the 60-nation political committee that the way to ease world tension was:

1. For the west to stop arming. "Stop stuffing weapons into your pockets and maybe the atmosphere will improve," he said.

2. Ban the atomic bomb.

3. Dissolve NATO, drop the Schuman plan, stop plans for re-arming Western Germany, and abandon the European Defense Community.

This is the hoary Communist peace plan which the assembly has rejected and the west has denounced as designed to leave non-Communist countries at the mercy of the Soviet Union.

THE ONLY change was in presentation. Instead of violently denouncing western countries as warmongers, murderers and cannibals, he attempted to use a tempered reasoning to persuade western delegates that his program was really in their interest.

His theme was that Lenin and Stalin had repeatedly stated the Communist and non-Communist worlds could co-exist peacefully. In view of that, Vishinsky claimed, any statement that the west's rearmament drive and series of alliances were necessary because of threats from the east was "a mere scarecrow."

Only on the subject of Korea did the Soviet chief delegate take account of recent developments.

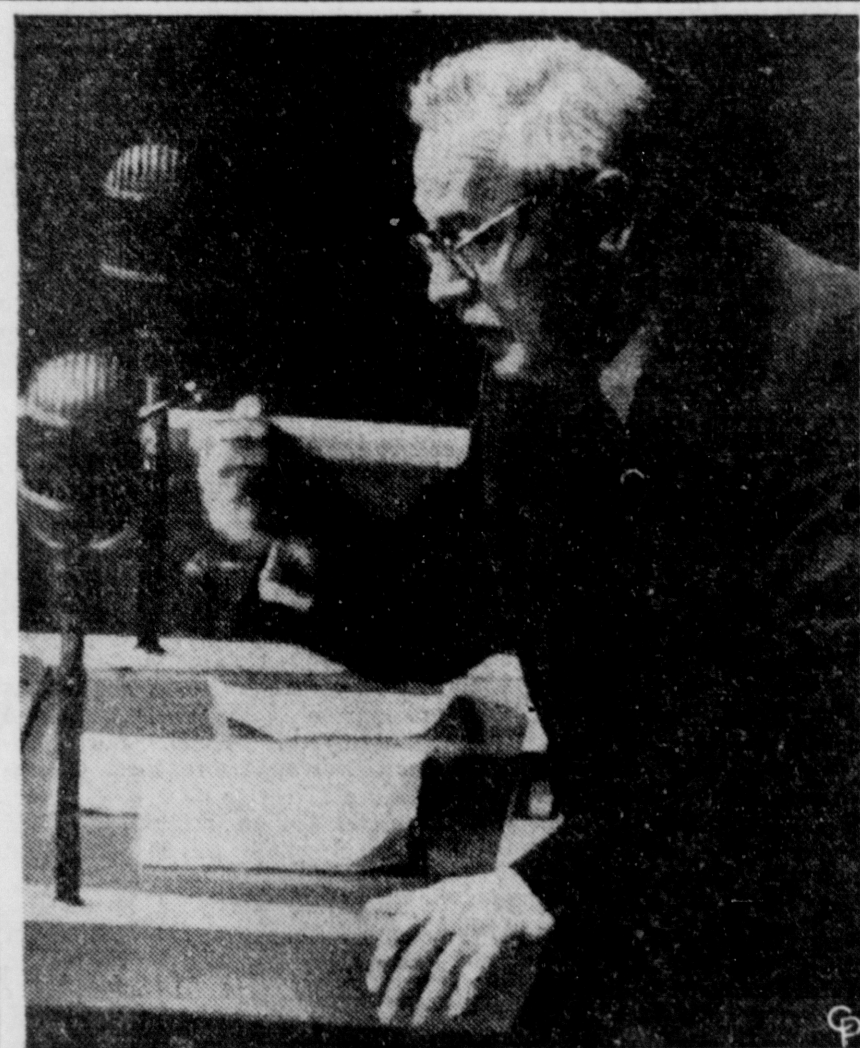

Vishinsky endorsed a Polish resolution calling for "the immediate resumption of truce negotiations between the parties, it being understood that in the course of such negotiations the parties will exert every effort to reach agreement both on the question of the exchange of sick and wounded prisoners of war and on the question of prisoners of war as a whole, endeavoring thereby to remove the obstacles preventing the termination of the war in Korea."

Stover said last fall he would vote Democratic in the 1952 presidential election although he was a Republican because "Dwight's got too many headaches now."

Ike's Uncle Milt Dies At Age 88

MYRTLE POINT, Ore. (AP)—Theodore Milton Stover, 88, an uncle of President Eisenhower, died here Thursday.

Stover said last fall he would vote Democratic in the 1952 presidential election although he was a Republican because "Dwight's got too many headaches now."

ANDREI VISHINSKY, permanent Soviet delegate to the United Nations in New York, presents a Russian offer to meet the western powers "half way" on global disarmament. The ex-Foreign Minister's bid was immediately rejected by the United States and Britain as designed to "scuttle" U.N. arms reduction and atom control plan.

Reporters Say Dulles Pulls Boner; Senator Asks Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Columbia Broadcasting System commentators have named Secretary of State Dulles as the point of origin of a number of recent newspaper stories on Far Eastern policy.

A story on Korea and Formosa published by the New York Times was denied by the White House Thursday, leading Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) to call for an investigation as to where it originated.

On separate CBS broadcasts commentators Eric Sevareid and Bill Costello said the stories had their origin in a background session which Dulles held with a number of correspondents.

Sevareid said: "Mr. Dulles discussed the whole problem of post-armistice Korea and Formosa; he specifically authorized that State Department thinking on these matters could be printed, conditioned only by the familiar restriction against naming the source."

THE NEW YORK Times had said in its Washington dispatch that the Eisenhower administration is willing to accept a boundary at the waist of the Korean Peninsula, some 80 miles north of the present battle lines. The same dispatch said the administration was considering the possibility of a United Nations trusteeship for Formosa with a Formosan republic as its ultimate goal.

Some hours after this was published, White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty issued a statement saying the administration (1) has never reached any conclusion that a permanent division of Korea is desirable or consistent with decisions of the UN, and (2) has given no consideration to a UN trusteeship for Formosa.

Arthur Krock, the Washington correspondent of the Times, commented that "it is another instance of the administration getting its wires crossed and blaming the consequences on the press."

Knowland, Republican policy leader in the Senate, told his colleagues it seemed inconceivable to him that any decision had been reached on a permanent division of Korea. Calling for an inquiry as to the point of origin of what he termed inspired stories, Knowland said:

"It is extremely important that this kind of loophole be stopped now because this nation cannot have two secretaries of state. It must speak with one voice through President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles."

Nationalists Rap Washington Story

TAIPEH (AP)—Nationalist China's foreign minister today labeled "preposterous" reports that Washington is considering a Korean settlement based on (a) a boundary line across the narrow waist of the peninsula and (2) a UN trusteeship for Formosa.

"Too preposterous to deserve serious comment," said Foreign Minister George Yeh. "If the UN should recognize the fruits of Communist aggression in Korea and elsewhere it would be in glaring violation of its charter."

Ailing POWs To Be Traded About April 21

Allies, Communists Negotiators Gather For Signing Of Pact

MUNSAN, Saturday (AP)—The Communists agreed Friday to trade sick and wounded prisoners beginning about April 21, then proposed resumption of the long-stalled armistice negotiations.

Both sides were expected to sign today the agreement calling for the exchange of 5,800 ailing Reds for 600 Allied prisoners, of which 120 are Americans.

But in calling for a return to the armistice table, the Communist officers gave no sign of yielding on the principle of forced repatriation of some 50,000 prisoners who balk at returning to Red rule. It was Allied refusal to return such prisoners that ruptured the negotiations last Oct. 8.

COMMUNIST liaison officers in Panmunjom, in proposing the resumption, declared "the principle of repatriation of all prisoners of war" after an armistice "is unshakable."

And the Communists reiterated "the Korean-Chinese side does not acknowledge that there are prisoners of war who are allegedly unwilling to be repatriated."

The Communists' proposal, which they called "very important," was in reply to a letter April 5 from Gen. Mark Clark, the United Nations Far East commander.

The Communists proposed Thursday that full-scale armistice talks be reopened to discuss their new plan for exchanging all prisoners of war—the last major barrier to a truce. The proposal was included in a "very important letter" delivered to UN negotiators.

The text of the letter, released later by the UN Command, appeared to restate the March 30 proposal of Red China's premier, which was basically the Indian proposal adopted by the UN and which China previously rejected. The text also was broadcast by Peiping radio.

Clark authorized signing of the disabled POW agreement after interpreters had completed Chinese, Korean and English translations and the final draft had been transmitted to Tokyo.

UNDER THE PACT, the Communists said they would send home 120 Americans, 20 British, 15 French, Turks, Canadians, Greeks and Dutch and about 450 South Koreans at the rate of 100 daily.

The Allies agreed to hand over 5,100 North Koreans and 700 Chinese at the rate of 500 daily.

The Communist move to resume full-scale truce talks, deadlocked (Continued on Page Two)

Atomic-Electric Power 'Way-Off'

CLEVELAND (AP)—A General Electric Co. engineering expert estimated today it would be at least 15 years before atomic electric plants make an economically sound contribution to the nation's power supply.

Harry A. Winne, vice president of engineering for GE, said atomic fuel probably will not completely displace such other fuels as coal, oil or gas, but will become "a very welcome addition to our fuel reserves."

Ohio Student's Hearing Delayed

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Judge Boyd Anderson Thursday postponed for a week a preliminary hearing for William McCormick, 19, charged with manslaughter in an auto crash which killed two vacationing students.

McCormick, a student at Miami University, Oxford, O., said he fell asleep at the wheel of his car before it careened off Ocean Blvd.

You, Too, Can Be Free-Loader With Patience, Brass And Gall

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Do you want to beat the high cost of living? One sure way is to become a free loader. Millions of Americans have learned to follow this quick, easy path to a rich full life they could otherwise never afford.

You, too, can become one. All it takes is a little patience, a callous on your conscience, a lot of brass and gall, and the hide of an elderly elephant.

Free loading is merely hitchhiking through life on other people's good will. It is panhandling raised to a pure art form.

In the old days a free loader was a frowsy character who sidled through a saloon door when the bartender's back was turned and wolfed his way through the free lunch counter without buying a five-cent beer. Everybody knew who he was and nobody had any respect for him.

"Throw the bum out!" rang the cry and the bum was pitched. Those innocent times are gone.

U.S., Germans Testing Red Peace Moves

WASHINGTON (AP)—Top American officials today saw little chance Russia would accept an American-German challenge to permit genuinely free elections in Communist-ruled East Germany.

President Eisenhower and German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, in a move to test Russia's current peace offensive, urged Moscow to agree to this and also free some 300,000 German war prisoners still in Soviet hands.

The joint American-German appeal came in a formal communication announcing the results of three days of intensive talks between Eisenhower, Secretary of State Dulles and a German delegation headed by Adenauer.

Adenauer arranged to leave by plane today for San Francisco, to begin a nine-day cross country tour before returning to Germany.

As he prepared to wind up the first visit a German chancellor ever has made to the U. S., Adenauer could point to these chief achievements during his conferences:

1. A pledge the U. S. will supply guns, tanks, planes, and other military equipment needed to arm 12 German divisions which will join the six-nation European army, once created.

2. A promise the U. S. is sympathetically considering financial aid for beleaguered Western Berlin and thousands of refugees flocking into Western zones from Eastern Germany.

In return, Adenauer gave these pledges:

1. Controls aimed at choking off shipment of strategic materials to Communist nations will be tightened by "supplementary measures" aimed at barring transshipment through Germany.

2. An early agreement with France will be sought to settle the bitter dispute over the future of the industrial Saar border territory.

Red Crooner Ends Spiel Bitterly

SEOUL (AP)—Sweet and low the woman's voice crooned over a Communist loudspeaker last night to U. S. Marines in the Panmunjom sector.

Cooling Kremlin Is Seen Aiding U.S. Taxpayer

Wall Street Wishful Thinkers See Slash In Federal Revenue

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — The cooling Kremlin may be coming to the aid of the American taxpayer.

That, at least, is the wishful-thinking in some quarters in wall street. They reason that Moscow's peace overtures are already beginning to show signs of lowering U. S. government spending plans. If spending drops, taxes could be cut. And public demand likely would force a tax cut.

Signs of the change as cited by these observers include:

1. The U. S. Treasury says it will need to raise only two billion more dollars to keep its cash balance on June 30 at its present level of six billion dollars. Wall Street had figured prior to the Russian peace offensive that U. S. government defense spending plans would call for a larger program of Treasury financing.

2. Tool manufacturers believe another stretch-out in the defense program may be in the works. They report renewed stretch-outs or cancellations of some orders connected with the defense program.

The Air Force is cancelling orders for 100 million dollars worth of J-47 jet engines — but giving as the official reason that the engines have proved more efficient than expected and therefore they can be operated twice as long between overhauls as first thought possible.

A number of manufacturers of other defense goods are predicting cancellations of orders may reach as high as 20 percent, if peace comes. Still others are expecting a further stretch-out of delivery times on orders.

All of this would cut back the amount the government will be spending in the coming fiscal year. Hence the hope for tax cuts.

A third factor cited is the evident boost the peace talk is giving to the economy drive in Congress. Wall Streeters admit much of their hope is based on wishful thinking. But they were quick to fasten onto the U. S. Treasury's refinancing plans as a sign less spending is in prospect.

Most of them had expected that when the Treasury announced its long-term bond issue it would go after more than the one billion dollars it will seek to raise next Monday.

And the fact it will seek another billion dollars through more 91-day bills, its shortest-term security, was taken to mean the Treasury feels it won't be too badly pressed for cash in the second half of the year.

The new Treasury policy has been to turn to more long-term bonds and away from the short-term bills which this administration disparages as inflationary. Wall Street feels that the Treasury now thinks it won't need money

Organic Feed Is Beneficial For Farm Pond

Farmers are turning to history to find the proper way to feed their fish ponds.

There are some 250,000 farm ponds already built in the United States, and the Soil Conservation Service predicts one million more will be built in the next 20 years.

Ponds supply water for fire protection, home and barn needs, and emergency irrigation. Farm boys say they make fine swimming holes, too.

Properly fertilized, a farm pond can yield over 300 pounds of fish per acre—more pounds of food than the same acre of land could produce in beef.

The ancient Romans made a science of farm ponds. Today's farmers are learning from them that manure is an excellent fertilizer for ponds. One thousand pounds per acre per year, spread in equal amounts once a month during warm weather, are recommended.

COMPOST—rotted animal and vegetable wastes—may be substituted. Finely ground phosphate rock, 500 pounds per surface acre of water, also makes for more and bigger fish.

The fertilizer goes to feed the lowest organisms in the pond food chain, the microscopic algae and plankton. Richly-fed with organic fertilizers, these algae are very high in protein. The fish that eat them, in turn, provide excellent protein-rich nourishment for the farm family. Protein is an element sadly lacking in many people's diet.

Proper fertilization, plus steady fishing, establishes a balance between the food organisms and the fish in the pond and insures a steady yield of fish.

Lime will reduce algae-caused scum on the surface of the water, but never use the commonly recommended copper sulphate.

In more than two parts per million, it will kill everything living in the pond. Silt from eroding fields will also injure the algae and fish.

The Romans and Chinese used to rotate their fields, keeping them in grain for five years, then flooding them and growing fish for the next five.

American farmers have found they, too, can improve their soil by this method. They now rotate fields

Winter's Threat To Life Less Marked Than 40 Years Ago

Winter's added threat to life is much less marked than it was 40 years ago.

A study of the monthly variation in deaths shows the winter peak in the mortality curve to have flattened noticeably since the early years of this century.

The change is attributed in large measure to the remarkable progress made in the control of pneumonia and other respiratory infections.

"The leveling has not been as evident at the older ages as in other periods of life," statisticians observe, "primarily because respiratory complications still contribute to the death of many older persons with heart and other degenerative diseases."

HOWEVER, even at ages 60 and over, the death rate is not as responsive to seasonal variations as it was in former years.

Glamor Is Only Chemistry, Says Veteran Screen Actor

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

That thing called glamor is strictly chemistry, says Charles Coburn, the monocle-wearing veteran of stage and screen, who has been exposed to more of it than most men during his 60 years as an actor, producer and movie star.

The word glamor is used much too loosely, says the benign Coburn, because it is possessed by only a few women in each generation — and they are the lucky ones who are born with it. Asked to define this elusive but explosive quality, Hollywood's grand old man chewed meditatively on his brunch toast and said:

"When a woman has it, she's like a magnet, drawing all men to her. She's like a hypnotist, putting her subjects in a trance, so that they do as she desires, without their own volition. She doesn't have to be beautiful — she may be actually ugly. But if she's born with this rare quality, the world is her apple."

Coburn has either managed or acted with most of the great stars of the stage and screen of the last three generations. But of all the beauties with whom he has shared the spotlight, he can name only a few who, in his opinion, had "that certain thing." Of all of them, the most glamorous, he says, was the late Minnie Maddern Fiske, first

It is the first in a brand new family of drugs that show promise like other anti-leukemia drugs, it is against leukemia. It is not a cure. Like other anti-leukemia drugs, it brings only a few extra months of life and health—up to six months—and it doesn't benefit all victims.

A RED GIFT RACKET
COMMUNIST-DOMINATED countries, eager to stockpile dollars and valuable medicines which one day may be used against the free world, are exploiting with increasing diligence the generosity of thousands of Americans who have relatives or friends behind the iron curtain.

Large cities in the U. S., having considerable population groups whose roots are in Eastern Europe, are select targets for this assault, the pressure coming with special vigor from Poland, Czechoslovakia and Hungary.

The formula is simple, involving a seemingly urgent letter to a friend or relative asking, sometimes begging, for expensive medicines, clothing or gift certificates.

It is well established that such letters are written under pressure from the Red authorities, and that the gifts sent in response to them either are confiscated by the government directly or wind up by devious ways in government hands.

The satellite governments have even established "official" agencies in some American cities for handling transactions between Americans and relatives in the slave states.

Americans who respond to these appeals, no matter how innocently, help the Communist cause. These appeals are no less insidious because they are more subtle than the racket worked by the Chinese Communist government, which extorted hundreds of thousands of dollars from Chinese in this country under threat of death for their relatives in China.

SPIRITUAL POVERTY
IT WOULD NOT be easy to devise a just punishment for the citizen who expresses the view that peace and disarmament would be a calamity for America—because he would lose his soft job and high standard of living.

Such citizens are utterly selfish. They are willing to accept prosperity based upon the blood of young Americans and upon the anguish of parted families. Widows, orphans, amputees and the wreckage of war mean nothing to them.

The no-peace-at-any-price folks must be rated as low grade citizens, hopelessly caught in their moral and spiritual poverty.

A date with Princess Margaret would cost $280 and the guy wouldn't even get to take her home, it says in a story Dora clipped to show the next guy who expects a good-night kiss for a buck-and-a-quarter evening.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG
news behind the news

WASHINGTON, April 10—Secretary Humphrey's plan to shift at least $100 billion of short-term government obligations into long-term holdings paying a higher interest rate has met strong opposition from two strangely contrasting groups. Both bankers and organized labor seem to prefer the Truman-Snyder "easy money" policies to the "hard money" program outlined by President Eisenhower in his inaugural address.

Although Humphrey's proposal appears to be a complicated financial matter involving only big dealers in and purchasers of federal securities, it will affect every consumer and borrower, since interest rates help to determine the price of every product on the market. If the scheme operates as some Treasury heads expect, it may lower the general level of prices by its deflationary effect.

RECESSION — But it will be such a sharp break with the 20-year regime of cheap money, heavy borrowing and skyscraper debts, both public and private, that it may cause a temporary slump or recession. Should Russia's present peace maneuvers lead to a cut in arms expenditures, the Humphrey innovation might prove unwise from an economic and political standpoint.

With all their other domestic and foreign difficulties, the Republicans could not endure the added burden of business stagnation, an industrial slowdown and unemployment. Although the Humphrey idea is basically sound, this may not be the proper moment for its introduction.

LOW INTEREST — Former President Truman and Secretary Snyder kept interest rates on government securities at a low figure in order to reduce the cost of carrying the $267 billion debt, which now totals about $6.4 billion a year, or more than the whole expense of running the federal establishment in Herbert Hoover's day.

Interest payments on government issues averaged about 2 per cent. At least $100 billion of the public debt was short-term stuff, ranging from certificates maturing in 91 days to five-year notes. It is this amount which Secretary Humphrey would like to convert into long-term securities.

CONTRIBUTION — Besides reducing the cost of financing the swollen public debt, the Truman-Snyder interest rates also contributed to free-and-easy borrowing and spending by the general public. They helped to lay the foundation for our current inflationary structure.

The government's low interest rate, as always, affected the general rate that bankers and other lenders charged for the vast non-governmental debt, which has reached an all-time peak of $300 billion. Money and credit for homes, consumer goods and industrial expansion could be obtained for 4 per cent or less instead of the conventional 6 per cent.

Moreover, the banks regard and use short-term securities as money or liquid resources. Instead of holding them in their portfolios as an investment, they turned them into dollars again and again to finance their daily operations. It was floating cash in the financial blood stream, and it had a feverish effect on the nation's economic anatomy. To

George E. Sokolsky's These Days

Since the fall of the Roman Empire left Europe in disorder, constructive minds have often searched for a European unanimity of purpose and action. Charlemagne's empire might have spread out to include the whole of Europe, as it actually did include most of Western Europe. This empire fell apart.

Since Charlemagne, there have been a number of efforts to unite Europe by force, the two most notable in modern times being the empires of Napoleon and Hitler. But force does not change the mind of man, and when the use of military power lessens, the old lesions open again. The empires of both Napoleon and Hitler, having been established by military force, were destroyed by military force. After Napoleon, the peace was maintained by the Concert of Europe, but it was a 99-year peace without unity. In fact, during the 99 years of peace, nationalistic differences were emphasized. World War I put an end to that peace and in Europe articulated an unrealistic nationalism.

An effort was made through the League of Nations to establish a synthetic unity in Europe, and for that matter in all the world. This failed long before World War II because it was a political effort without either an economic or moral basis. Hitler's empire employed several methods to achieve unity—political propaganda, the elimination of population elements by mass murders, the projection of Nietzsche's ideas concerning an elite race, the Uebermensch, the Superman, the integration of all Germanic peoples into an economic state and, finally, war. Whereas Hitler might have united Europe, he failed.

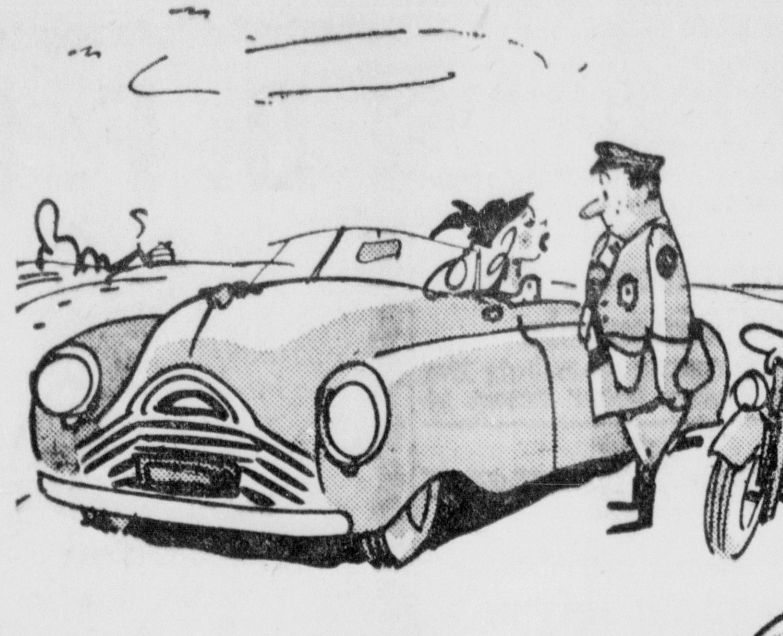

The Russians tried to unify Europe under the leadership of Stalin and by the creation of a pseudo-religious movement out of Marxism. By ingenious diplomacy at Tehran and Yalta, by propaganda among the peoples and infiltration into governments, by economic unification, the absorptions of weaker nations on her borders, and by war, Russia has built one of the largest and best integrated empires in history. Yet, already there are signs that the period of growth has been arrested. Soviet Russia is standing still; her satellites are uneasy; her missionaries and agents abroad are frightened.

Meanwhile, the successor to the League of Nations, the United Nations, continues to labor for some kind of unity. The United Nations Charter is so involved a document and its methods are so complex that progress toward European unity had to be made outside it, in a series of conferences and agreements which have been astonishingly successful.

The first of these was the formation of the Benelux Customs Union in September, 1944. This is an economic union of Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. It has functioned admirably. If its principles could be extended to the whole of non-Russian Europe, the advantages would be enormous.

The Economic Commission for Europe was set up in March, 1947, and included Russian satellites as well as free countries—Belgium, Byelorussia, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, France, Greece, Iceland, Luxembourg, Netherlands, Norway, Poland, Sweden, Turkey, Ukraine, United Kingdom.

Adhesions Following Surgery

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
ADHESIONS are one of the severest complications of surgery. Adhesions are tough bands of tissue that grow after an operation. Their effect is not felt immediately after an operation, but it may take weeks or months for them to form.

In the abdomen, these bands of adhesions can compress the bowels and other organs and may even pinch the bowel shut, causing a condition known as bowel obstruction.

Preventive Measure
In performing operations, surgeons try to be as gentle as possible to help prevent adhesions. All raw surfaces are closed over with peritoneum, the glistening membranes that line the abdominal cavity, before the abdomen is closed, for this helps prevent adhesions from forming.

Once adhesions have formed they are difficult to correct. Operations to cut them out usually are not successful, for they regrow very readily. Many times additional operations are needed due to complications of these adhesions.

Other Causes
In many cases where there are adhesions, they developed following a surgical operation. However, adhesions can also form from an unoperated ruptured appendix, or infection of the abdominal organs.

It has been shown that talcum powder, when used as a lubricant on a surgeon's rubber gloves, can cause adhesions if some of the powder gets into the abdominal cavity. When this was shown, hospitals throughout the country replaced talcum powder with cornstarch for the gloves. This has cut down the number of adhesions in the abdomen greatly. In fact, a large per cent of our hospitals have now switched to cornstarch.

Cautions Used
However, even cornstarch at times is not immune from causing some adhesions. Knowing this, surgeons are very cautious to see that any excess powder is removed from their gloves before starting an operation.

Modern surgery is constantly on the alert to find newer methods of preventing complications during an operation and while the patient is recovering.

QUESTION AND ANSWER
R. T.: One doctor told me that I had diverticulitis. Another said I had diverticulosis. What is the difference?
Answer: Diverticulosis is a disease in which there are small out-pocketings of the large intestine at various places. A person may have as many as one hundred of these. Usually, there are no symptoms from this disease. However, if inflammation occurs, the diverticulitis (the out-pocketings) become inflamed and infected and may cause bloody diarrhea with severe pain. There may be chills and fever along with these symptoms.

The Cleveland orchestra plans to give concerts before Indian night baseball games this summer. Featuring, no doubt, the works of Wagner (Richard, not Hans).

We can see the bleacherites, now, demanding to know what was the orchestra conductor's 1952 baton average.

Hungry Cleveland stadium grandstanders now have a greater choice—hot dogs with mustard or Mendelssohn, or both.

"Tiger Rag" might make a nice musical introduction to a Detroit game but somehow we can't visualize any Lake Erie horn blowers giving out with "The Yanks Are Coming" in honor of a certain Casey Stengel.

Here's a lovely idea—how about as the lights go on in the big ball yard the musicians strike up with a soft rendition of "Glow Worm"?

Since the Tribe is strictly a big league outfit it will be most appropriate if the orchestra plays everything in a major key.

As players, the Indians mustn't kid the blue-clad dictators of baseball but what's to stop the music makers from giving 'em an assist by, as the umpire-in-chief stalks out to the plate, handing him the full "Syncopated Clock" treatment?

BLONDES DIE YOUNG
By BILL PETERS

SYNOPSIS
Having found his sweetheart, Janey Nelson, murdered in a foul rooming house in Chicago, Detective Bill Callahan dedicates himself to the grim task of finding her killer. For all that she'd been singing in a tawdry night club, Bill had every reason to believe that she had been a fine, clean-living girl. What did her young brother, Bob Nelson, a drug addict, know of this crime? Terry Mitchell, an amiable young lady of the press, joins with Callahan in his search for a killer.

CHAPTER SEVEN
TO ME, Clark street was a noisy, flamboyant one, flanked with cheap bars, clip joints, Army and Navy stores and all-night theaters. It was as loud as a freight yard when all the stock is rolling, and it was colored a wild orange-green from the neon signs that glowed above every bar, movie and shop. There were beggars, hustlers and tramps on the sidewalks, and nattily dressed fillipinos, suave and cheerful in tight-fitting suits and wide-brimmed white felt fedoras. Also, there were lots of ordinary people who were probably on their way home after a day's work. I saw a woman with a market basket, a mother with two kids, an electrician in greasy overalls and a priest.

All of this went by on the corners of my eyes. I wasn't daydreaming. I had Bob Nelson in the crowd, and I wasn't really looking at anything else. He followed the right side of the street for two blocks, and then went over to the other side in the middle of a block. I went after him and slowed down when he turned into a bar called the Elephant. There was a neon sign of an elephant above it, and the windows and door were thickly curtained. I couldn't get a glimpse of the inside, so I took a post in front of a haberdashery shop a few doors away, and looked at some ties and shirts. It was nine o'clock. I decided to give him ten minutes.

He came out just under the wire. There was no change in his appearance; dope, if he'd gotten any, doesn't work that fast. The only thing was that when he stroled away his pace was slow and easy. He was just a well-dressed collegiate-looking kid, drifting along in Clark street in no particular hurry.

I let him get a block away and then pulled the knot out of my tie down an inch or so, unbuttoned my vest and walked into the bar called the Elephant. It was a black-and-tan joint, a narrow, low-ceilinged place and reeked of stale smoke, yesterday's beer and the bitter tang of disinfectant. There were a few whites at the bar, and three colored men sitting at a table just to the left of the entrance. A blonde with a bad complexion and thick make-up sat alone in a booth.

Mrs. H. M. Crites, president, opened the April meeting of the Trinity Lutheran Ladies Missionary Society, Wednesday afternoon in the parish house with a hymn, "In The Secret of His Presence". Devotions were led by Mrs. Richard Fellmeth, chaplain, and she also finished the Bible study of the Book of Ruth.

Mrs. Elmer Miller read the missionary topic for the month, "Our Christian Faith, Sanctified to Live". Mrs. Crites told of the benefits of being members of the Women's Missionary Federation of the American Lutheran church, which now has a membership of 50 thousand.

A letter was also read from Mrs. Stengel, chairman of India Women's Work in Ohio, asking the society to give generously to this work.

Mrs. Miller, Mrs. John Smith and Mrs. Orin Updyke were named delegates to the Spring Conference of Women's Missionary Federation to be held in Gahanna, April 30.

The society acknowledged the 50th anniversary of Mrs. E. E. Sennebrenner as a member of the society. Mrs. William Heffner, grandmother of Miss Mary Heffner, organized the society and the first meeting was held in her home.

Mrs. Smith, program chairman, presented Billy Marie Nehrenee, granddaughter of Mrs. Fellmeth, who gave two piano solos. Lois Wittich gave a vocal number, accompanied by Joyce Troutman and Mrs. Smith gave a reading, "House Cleaning".

Paul's Conversion at Damascus

JESUS APPEARED TO HIM, ASKING, "WHY PERSECUTEST THOU ME?"

Scripture—Acts 7:58—8:3; 9:1-30; 22:1-21; Galatians 1:1; Philippians 3:4-6.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

NEXT WEEK —April 13— is National Sunday School Week, sponsored by the Laymen's National Committee, Inc., the members of which "believe that the Sunday school is a great influence for good and that the training and inspiration which it gives to our boys and girls makes them better people and helps prepare for the responsibilities they will face as adults."

Today's lesson should give our young people something to think over because it tells of a fine, well-educated man who was obsessed by one idea—to destroy as quickly as possible some "upstarts" who were stirring people up with a new religion that threatened to supersede the old Jewish religion in which he had been carefully trained.

Converted to the new faith, however, he had the courage to espouse the cause with all the youthful enthusiasm he had shown before in fighting it, breaking with his old associates and fearlessly facing hatred, persecution and martyrdom.

We first see Paul watching impassively—if not with pleasure—the stoning of that splendid martyr, St. Stephen, whose face, at his trial, was "as it had been the face of an angel." He did not join in the stoning, but "Saul was con-

hesitant to obey, but being told of what had befallen Saul on his journey, and how the Lord had chosen him "to bear My name before the Gentiles, and kings, and the children of Israel," he gladly went to find him.

He went into the house, and putting his hands on Saul, said, "Brother Saul, the Lord, even Jesus, that appeared unto thee in the way as thou camest, hath sent me, that thou mightest receive thy sight, and be filled with the Holy Ghost."

Immediately Saul saw and was baptized. Saul stayed with the disciples for some days, and he preached the gospel in the synagogues, to the amazement of all who heard him.

The persecution that he hoped to inflict on the disciples now faced him. Certain Jews plotted to kill him. One night they let him down the wall of the house in a basket and he escaped and went to Jerusalem.

There Saul went to the disciples, expecting to join with them, but they distrusted his conversion. Barnabas took him to the Apostles, however, and told how Saul had been preaching boldly in Damascus in the name of Jesus, and then they accepted him as one of them.

"And he spoke boldly in the name of the Lord Jesus and dissented unto his death," and the maddened rabble laid down their clothes at his feet.

Then Saul, "breathing out threatenings and slaughter against the disciples of the Lord, went unto the high priests." He asked them for letters to the synagogues at Damascus, so that he might search out any Christians in that city—men or women—and bring them bound to Jerusalem.

On his journey to Damascus, coming near the city, "suddenly there shined about him a light from heaven." Saul fell to the earth and he heard a voice saying, "Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou Me?"

"Who art Thou, Lord?" Saul asked, trembling and astonished, "What wilt Thou have me do?"

And the answer was: "Arise, and go into the city, and it shall be told thee what thou must do." When Saul rose, he was blind, but his companions led him to the city where he was three days without sight, and neither ate nor drank.

In Damascus lived a disciple of Jesus named Ananias, and he saw the Lord in a vision. He was told to go into the Street called Straight, and ask in a certain house for "one called Saul of Tarsus, for, behold, he prayeth."

Ananias had heard of this man who had made himself a terror to Christians, so he was a little put against the Grecians, but they went about to slay him." When the apostles knew this they brought him to Caesarea and sent him to Tarsus, his native city.

Much later Saul, whom we now call Paul, faced death again at the hands of the Jews of Asia, who began beating him, but the chief captain of the Romans, with his soldiers rescued Paul and took him, bound, to the castle. As he was about to be led into the prison he asked the captain if he might speak to the people, telling the captain who he was, and the captain consented.

Then Paul spoke to the crowd which had been trying to kill him, talking in Hebrew. He told them where he was born and how, in Jerusalem, he had obtained his education from Gamaliel, a member of the Sanhedrin, and how he had been active in persecuting the Christians, even standing by, consenting to the death of Stephen. He told them of the vision he had when going to Damascus, and how he had been converted and ever since had been zealous in preaching and teaching the gospel of Christ, who had told him to preach to the Gentiles.

The courage to change our minds, no matter what others may think of us; and to speak out without fear the things we know to be true and right, are two of the lessons we may well learn from Paul's story.

World Today

WASHINGTON (P)—There is no clearer illustration of the remoteness of peace with Russia than two statements issued late yesterday, one in New York, the other in Washington.

Premier Malenkov has been talking peace since Stalin died. His representative in the United Nations, Andrei Y. Vishinsky, got up there yesterday and declared among other things:

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the Schuman Plan, the European Defense Community and plans for re-arming West Germany must be abandoned; the atom bomb must be banned at once; the U. S. must stop building up its own arms.

The No. 1 trouble with the proposals was that they were not new. Vishinsky had talked the same way while Stalin was alive. What he said showed once again that:

The West's economic and military build up is bothering Russia. This probably reveals precisely why Malenkov is talking peace so hard: To slow it down or scuttle it before it gets too far advanced.

In Washington, after three days of conferences among President Eisenhower, West Germany's Chancellor Adenauer, Secretary of State Dulles and other officials, the State Department issued a statement on where they agreed.

All of it involved Germany but in these officials:

Challenged Russia to show its god intentions by letting the East Germans have free elections; said they were convinced there can be no lasting solution of the German problem unless Germany is reunited peacefully and democratically; agreed West Germany must be rearm as part of a single European army and that the U. S. would help West Germany rearm.

Until this statement the Russians had been drenching Western Europe with their peace propaganda without much challenge from the U. S. to get down to cases on what it would do about some of the most important problems.

Eisenhower had told a news conference he would meet the Russians halfway. And Dulles last week said Russia could show its good heart by agreeing on a peace treaty for Austria.

But by throwing Germany at the Russians, since final settlement on Germany is one of the keystones to any real peace, the Eisenhower-Adenauer agreement off some of the Russian propaganda.

There can be no better testing

Chevrolet's improved Velvet-Pressure Jumbo-Drum Brakes give maximum stopping power with maximum ease of application

Chevrolet owners have long been convinced that they have the stafest as well as the largest brakes to be found on any low-priced car.

And now, for 1953, our engineers have made these brakes even more efficient by installing a new hydraulic master cylinder, increasing brake responsiveness while decreasing pedal effort, and adopting a new foot-form brake pedal which provides easier, more natural contact with the foot.

The results are much smoother, more responsive brake action . . . with up to 23% less pedal pressure . . . and a soft, velvety feel of operation hitherto found only in higher-priced cars.

Realize, too, that here is the only low-priced car with sturdy Fisher Unisteel Construction, Safety Plate Glass in windshield and all windows of sedans and coupes, extra-easy Power Steering* and many other important safety factors, and you'll understand why owners rate the new Chevrolet tops in safety-protection as well as in beauty and performance.

Tigers Lose 17-2 In 1st Hardball Test

Circleville's Red and Black Tiger baseball team fell to a 17-2 defeat Thursday in its opening game of the 1953 season at the home of the Chillicothe Cavaliers.

Tiger swatters held their own in the encounter until the fourth inning, when the roof fell in. Chillicothe collected 14 runs in that frame.

Chillicothe opened Thursday's encounter with a brace of runs in the first inning while blanking the Tigers.

Circleville retaliated in the second however, when Pitcher Bob Turner drove in a pair of teammates to knot the score at 2-all.

THE CAVALIERS pushed into a 3-2 advantage in the last of the second frame with a single marker, and both teams went scoreless in the third.

Chillicothe caught up with the CHS'ers in the fourth, however, driving in 14 encounters on seven hits and five walks by Pitchers Turner and Ron Bennington and some errors. Both teams cleaned out the rest of the frames without score.

Cavalier Hurler Manion allowed six free trips during the fracas, but made up for the slips by fanning 17 of the CHS batsmen.

Circleville's next contest will be an SCOL match Tuesday at Greenfield McClain. Box score of the opening Tiger test follows:

Broncos Defeat Monroe, Scioto

Ashville's Bronco baseball team put in its bid as a top contender for the county league flag Wednesday and Thursday with wins over Monroe and Scioto.

The Broncos, behind three-hit hurling of Charles Hardin, defeated Monroe on Wednesday afternoon in a 20-1 set-to.

And Thursday afternoon, the Broncos outlasted the invading Bufalos of Scioto Township to collect a 14-11 win. Ronnie Wilson was winning hurler in the Thursday test, allowing only one hit before he was replaced by Jack Ray Beavers, while Bill Martin and Ray Beavers did honors for the Sciotoans. Hutchinson gave up six hits in relief for the Broncos, while Martin and Beavers allowed 15 Ashville safeties.

Ashville's next test will be Monday against invading Stoutsville Indians.

Lakers Seeking To Wrap Up Title

NEW YORK (AP)—Minneapolis can wrap up its second straight National Basketball Association playoff title at the expense of New York tonight—and the Knicks are still seeking a formula to stop the Lakers in this "must" game.

New York started the current playoffs with a victory but has been unable to click since then as the defending champions rolled up three wins—the last two on the 69th Regiment Armory floor here.

Should the Knicks triumph, games are scheduled in Minneapolis Sunday and Wednesday, as needed.

Hornets Collect Win Over Barons

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Pittsburgh Hornets breathed confidence today in the wake of their first victory over the Cleveland Barons in the best of seven series for the American Hockey League's Calder Cup.

After a comparatively easy 5-2 win over the Barons Thursday night, the Hornets to a man vowed they would square the series at two games apiece when it resumes here Saturday night.

It may have been because they were playing on home ice, but the Hornets hardly resembled the team that lost 2-0 and 3-2 decisions to the Barons at Cleveland.

his life with a razor blade Wednesday night. He was given two blood transfusions and doctors said he had been taken off the critical list.

Mrs. Lombardi said Ernie, 45, attempted suicide while en route to a sanitarium for psychiatric treatment.

Redlegs Due To Appear In Home Town

CINCINNATI (AP)—Most of the Cincinnati Redlegs were here Wednesday but this is the day the team will have its 1953 debut before home town fans.

The Redlegs will meet the Detroit Tigers, the same club they slaughtered in Columbus Thursday by a 13-3 score.

The principal interest among the fans was to get a preview look at the team Manager Rogers Hornsby as he put together for the 1953 National League pennant race.

Today Herman Wehmeier, a home town boy, was listed by Hornsby as his pitcher against Detroit's youthful star, Billy Hoelt.

In Columbus, the Redlegs had a field day at the expense of Ned Garver, one of the American League's top hurlers two years ago and slated to be one of the Tigers' best this season.

They clubbed him for 10 runs in five innings and then added three more off Ray Herbert. Five of Cincinnati's 14 hits were home runs and four were doubles.

Gus Bell got two of the homers and Rocky Bridges, Ted Kluszewski and Andy Seminick got one.

Bud Podbielan, already nominated to be Cincinnati's opening day pitcher Monday, and Howie Judson had little trouble holding the Tigers in check.

Strange Boxers Slated For TV

NEW YORK (AP)—Don't be surprised when Randy Sandy and Jimmy Beau pop up on your television screen tonight instead of Rocky Marciano and Jersey Joe Walcott.

Tonight was the original date for the heavyweight title return bout in Chicago Stadium. But an injury to Rocky's nose forced a postponement until May 15.

Sandy, a skinny, 22-year-old New York middleweight, meets Beau, of New Canaan, Conn., in the main 10 rounder at St. Nicholas Arena. Sandy is 9 to 5 choice.

Man Is Indicted

DELAWARE (AP)—The grand jury Thursday indicted Robert B. Robinson Jr., 25, on two counts of first degree murder in the death of Chelsea Joyce Halley, 17, of Columbus. Robinson, the father of two children, claims the girl died in a suicide pact March 29.

Babe Zaharias Under Observation

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP)—Babe Didrikson Zaharias kept the traditional "stiff upper lip" today as physicians continued tests to determine the malady that threatens to end her great athletic career.

The famed woman golfer quit a tour after examination by a physician at Ft. Worth revealed a serious condition. She came back to Beaumont, where she got her start toward fame as the world's outstanding feminine athlete, and entered a hospital Thursday.

Mrs. Zaharias was voted the outstanding woman athlete of the half-century in an Associated Press poll.

Sokolsky's These Days

The Dunkirk Treaty of Alliance was signed between Great Britain and France on March 4, 1947 and was followed by the Brussels Treaty of 1948 between the Benelux countries and France and Great Britain, strengthening the Benelux concept of a European customs union.

This was followed by the agreement for the Organization for European Economic Cooperation (the Marshall Plan) in Paris on April 16, 1948. This included the countries which we now term Western Europe, supported by the United States. It is to be noted that Turkey and Greece here take their places among Western countries.

On December 28, 1948, in London, the international Ruhr Authority, among Belgium, France, West Germany, Netherlands, Luxembourg, United Kingdom and the United States, was arranged, taking that area of contention out of danger to Germany and France.

Then came the North Atlantic Treaty (Washington, 1949) which established a comity among Western European countries and actually stopped the further advance of Russia in Europe.

It was strengthened by the Council of Europe (1949) and the European Defense Community (1952). These latter agreements are popularly referred to as NATO.

One other step toward European unity must be referred to. This is the European Coal and Steel Community (the Schuman Plan), agreed to in 1951 and now actually functioning. This may save the economy of Western Europe.

Champions Picked To Keep Crowns

NEW YORK (AP)—If the New York Yankees and the Brooklyn Dodgers meet in the World Series again this fall don't say you weren't given fair warning. An Associated Press poll of the Baseball Writers' Association shows the experts are stringing along with last year's major league winners.

The Dodgers got the biggest vote as 105 of the 142 participating writ-

Spittlebug Control Offers Boosted Production Of Hay

Best Outlines Procedure For County Farms

Clover and alfalfa pasture and hay yields can be increased from 25 to 50 percent when they are sprayed for spittlebug control.

According to research work done at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station over the last five years, $1 invested in material can well increase hay and pasture yields by as much as one-half ton per acre.

Meadows and pastures should be sprayed in Pickaway County between April 20 and May 5. Usually, the earlier spraying will show the most benefit.

County Agent Larry Best recommends the following procedures:

Use benzene hexachloride (BHC), toxaphene or methoxychlor.

USE ONE quart per acre of water miscible BHC carrying 10 to 12 percent gamma isomer in the amount of water the sprayer will deliver per acre.

If toxaphene is used, apply one quart of 60 percent liquid concentrate per acre.

Methoxychlor is used at the rate of two quarts of 25 percent emulsifiable liquid per acre.

The low-pressure weed type sprayers are most practical for the average farmer to use in spraying for spittlebug. From 5 to 15 gallons of water per acre should be used at 30 to 60 pounds pressure.

If Spittlebug spraying is delayed beyond the recommended dates, then high gallonage, high pressure sprayers must be used to secure much benefit.

Clean weed sprayers thoroughly with one gallon of household ammonia to 100 gallons of water. Use a different tank than for weed spraying.

A field should not be pastured with cattle for three weeks following spraying with BHC or toxaphene. Methoxychlor is not toxic to warm-blooded animals, which is an advantage if the field is to be pastured early.

However, if spraying is done as early as suggested and for good pasture management, livestock should not be on alfalfa or red clover pasture until three weeks following the spray application.

SPITTLEBUGS will start hatching about April 15 in Pickaway County. The eggs were laid by the adults the first half of last September on clover, alfalfa, grain stubble and trash.

The young, yellowish nymphs and their spittle masses will be in evidence on clover alfalfa, strawberry plants, flowers and weeds from mid-April to June. They will literally suck much of the life from plants they are on, which stunts the growth of plants and decreases yields unless a control program is followed.

In early June, the nymphs develop into winged adults and resemble large leafhoppers. They feed upon foliage until they die a natural death or freezing weather kills them.

Spraying to control Spittlebug should be considered as important a farm operation as cultivating corn.

Strike Approved

CANTON — Unless an agreement is reached by April 20, says Don Forchione, there will be a strike at the Ford Motor Co. plant here. Forchione is president of Local 42 of the CIO-United Automobile Workers of America. The local Thursday night voted 628 to 303 to support a strike call.

AIRMAN 2/e Myron Youtsey of Van Wert, O., stands beside bomb in Korea of the type with which he had a harrowing experience during a mission against the Communists at Old Baldy on the fighting front. A gunner aboard a B-26 Invader bomber, he crawled into the bomb bay and disarmed a bomb which got "hung up" when the plane unloaded over enemy positions. Action saved plane and crew. Bomb later was dropped into the sea. (International)

Ambulances Too Swift, Medics Say

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — Do ambulances go too fast?

Some doctors think so and have brought the subject before the Duval County Medical Society.

"Only 4.2 percent of all ambulance patients transported might possibly be called emergencies," Dr. L. L. Parks said in the report of a survey. And, he added:

"It is believed that if the ambulances were required to observe normal speed limits and not be permitted to break red lights or use sirens, the number of lives lost by observing normal traffic regulations probably would not be more than the number of people injured and killed at the present time by speeding ambulances."

Black Cancer Curb Found In New Drug

CHICAGO — Discovery of the first drug stopping the speedy and almost-always fatal black cancer, melanoma, was announced today.

It works only for a time. But it has banished this dread cancer in one human for at least a year, and has helped a few others.

Until now there has not been any drug or treatment, except surgery at the very earliest signs, which has had the slightest effect upon melanoma. This dark cancerous growth always starts somewhere on the skin, then spreads with distressing rapidity inside the body.

This heartening step in chemical warfare upon cancer was reported to the American Association for Cancer Research by Doctors Farber, Virginia Downing, and Majib Abu-Hadar of the Children's Cancer Research Foundation and Department of Pathology, Harvard Medical School, Boston.

TEPA has been used so far upon 17 humans with melanomas, Dr. Farber said. It temporarily knocked out the cancers in five. The other 12 were persons in whom the cancers already had spread to internal organs.

Work on mice indicates that TEPA might entirely abolish human melanomas if they were caught very early, said Dr. Farber. Melanomas account for about three percent of all cancer deaths.

Sheriffs Object

COLUMBUS — Ohio sheriffs don't want to combine dog catching with criminal investigations. The Buckeye State Sheriffs Association says it is opposed to a bill before the Ohio House which would make sheriffs in counties of less than 100,000 population dog wardens.
